JAPS FLEEING ALONG WHOLE CHINA COAST

CHINESE MOP UP KANHSIEN, U. S. AIRBASE CITY

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, July 13 (AP) — Chinese forces broke into the former American airbase city of Kanhsien, 240 miles north of Hong Kong, last night and bitter street fighting still rages there "as our troops mop up enemy remnants," the Chinese high command said tonight.

Earlier an army spokesman declared the Japanese might be abandoning the whole south China coast between Hong Kong and Indo-China.

Chinese reports indicated the enemy was retreating northward from Kanhsien. The city's fall would restore to Allied control the sixth former U. S. 14th air force base given up last year to the Japanese.

The high command said its troops had recaptured Tangkiang, highway center 11 miles west of Kanshien, and Fengkang seven miles from the city, on Wednesday. The Chinese push had carried 35 miles since the capture last Saturday of Tayu, 42 miles southwest of Kanhsien.

Maj.-Gen. Kuo Chi-chih, army spokesman, said there was a possibility the Japanese were withdrawing from the south China coast, from the Indo-China border to the vicinity of Hong Kong.

Kuo said the Japanese landings south of Amoy might be their prelude to an attempt to fight southward to Swatow and from there to Hong Kong. Such a move would mean abandonment of the two remaining isolated enemy pockets on the China coast. The Chinese "invasion coast" would then be opened from Hong Kong in the south to Ninghsien below Shanghai—an airline distance of nearly 700 miles.

Manila, Saturday, July 14 (AP) —Racing northward against collapsed Japanese resistance, Australian Seventh Division troops are within nine miles of Sambodja, heart of a great East Borneo oil field, after a four and one-half mile gain, a spokeman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today.

Th Australians, now more than 20 miles north of the captured oil port of Balikpapan, where they invaded on July 1, found that the stiff enemy resistance faded away on Wednesday, the spokesman said .

Latest reports, up to three days old, placed the Australians at the village of Bangsal, on the oil pipeline nine miles south of Sambodja.

Besides this gain, today's communique said other Allied units were thrusting inland from Balikpapan.

Avoid Operations In Polio Season, Dr. Dekleine Says

Lansing, July 13 (AP)—Dr. William Dekleine, state health commissioner, today warned Michigan parents against tonsil and adenoid operations for their children until after the end of the poliomyelitis season sometime in late September or early October.

He said study has shown operations performed during an infantile paralysis epidemic increase the danger of contraction of poliomyelitis in its most serious form.

Fifteen cases of polio have been reported in the state so far this year, equal to the same period in 1944.

Experts Study Data On Gigantic German Chemical Monopoly

BY DON WHITEHEAD

Hoescht, Germany, July 13 (AP) —Department of Justice and the United States Group Control experts delved into seven tons of records today to trace the world wide industrial machinations and stockholdings of the great German chemical trust, I. G. Farbenindustrie.

These documents may disclose all the secrets of the corporation's intricate cartel operations which gave it a strong hold on many industries in almost every part of the world, including the United States, and provided the Nazis with a powerful organization for industrial espionage and sabotage.

Col. Edwin Pillsbury, Berkeley, Calif., who directed military seizure last week of 24 Farben plants in the United States zone of occupation, said it would require months to piece together the entire story of Farben operations and to uncover hidden stockholdings.

"It is one of the most amazing stores of modern times," Pillsbury said. "The manner in which Farben agents gained control of certain industries and carried on a role of domination in the world's chemical industry is almost unbelievable."

The German war machine would have collapsed without I. G. Farbenindustrie, Pillsbury said. The investigation already has disclosed that the combine controled practically all German chemical production, furnished the Nazis with needed foreign exchange, engaged in industrial espionage, checked closely on chemical production in every country and hampered production in other countries.

Some findings are so startling that a brigadier general, whose name cannot be given, is flying to Washington with documents to place into the record against I. G. Farbenindustrie.

Control council agents already have found that Farben was operating more than 20 laboratories for pure research in the American zone alone. In one, scientists were working on synthetic penicillin, but progress made is not yet determined.

The breakup of I. G. Farbenindustrie in Germany may be a matter of high policy to be determined by the four-power control council in Berlin, because Farben plants are scattered throughout Germany. In the American zone alone, Pillsbury estimated the physical property seized had a dollar value of more than $50,000,000, exclusive of cash and bank credits.

SHIPS KEEP UP OCEAN PARADE

Soldiers Returning From Europe By Divisions For Redeployment

Paris, July 13 (AP)—The first deployment of high scoring WACs starts tomorrow when 120 will fly to the United States, 80 from Paris and 40 from Prestwick in Scotland.

Today's redeployment box score of army units:

The bulk of the 104th Division is in the United States with the last units at sea enroute.

The Fourth, Eighth and 87th Infantry Divisions are on the high seas.

The 44th Division is in the United Kingdom awaiting shipment to the United States.

The entire Second and Fifth Infantry Divisions cleared Le Havre yesterday.

The main body of the 13th Armored Division is loading at Le Havre for shipment today.

Advance units of the 20th Armored Division sail from Le Havre today with the main body scheduled to leave before the end of the month.

Advance groups of the 28th and 13th Infantry Divisions now are arriving at Le Havre for shipment.

An advance party of the 35th Infantry Division arrived at the assembly area yesterday and the main body is due July 18.

BARGAIN IN RUM

Lansing, July 13 (AP)— Marimba rum, now selling at $4.75 a fifth, will be sold at $3.50 in order to dispose of remnants of an original purchase of 115,000 cases, the State Liquor Control Commission reported today.

Mc KAY'S TRIAL TO BE SEPT. 5

Five Others To Face Charge Of Liquor Graft Plot

Lansing, July 13 (AP) — Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr today set September 5 for the start of the trial of Frank D. Mc Kay and five others accused of a liquor graft conspiracy who stood mute on arraignment before Judge Carr this morning.

Pleas of innocent were entered for all six defendants, and bond of $5,000 each for defendants, previously posted, was continued. The trial is to be held in Ingham county circuit court at Mason.

Others who will stand trial are William H. Mc Keighan, former mayor of Flint; Fisher L. Layton of Flint; Charles Williams and his son Earl Williams, and Charles Leiter, all of Detroit, former liquor sales representative.

They were bound over for trial last Saturday after a preliminary examination before Judge Carr, sitting as an examining magistrate.

They are accused of conspiring to corrupt the state liquor control commission between 1938 and 1940 by "bribes, threats and intimidations," and of demanding a fee from liquor distillers and distributors in exchange for preferential treatment in purchase of their liquor by the liquor commission.

Two defendants named in the warrant issued by Judge Carr's one-man grand jury investigating graft in state government will not stand trial. Charles against Isadore Schwartz, former liquor representative, were dismissed when he became a prosecution witness, testifying under an immunity grant. Judge Carr dismissed charges against Donald Flory of Hudson on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Detroit, July 13 (AP)—William J. Cody, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1944, announced today that he would sek the nomination again in 1946.

NAVAL PLANES RAID HONSHU AND HOKKAIDO

POWERFUL CARRIER FORCE OF 1,000 POUNDS NIPPON

BY LEIF ERICKSON

Guam, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—The mighty Third Fleet's Carrier Task Force 38, making its deepest penetration of enemy home waters, is attacking air bases on northern Honshu and Hokkaido—hit for the first time—with more than 1,000 carrier planes, fleet headquarters announced today.

The attack, the second this week by Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey's free - roving armada, opened at dawn and continues "at the present time."

No Air Opposition

In spearing more than 800 miles farther north than any major Pacific fleet has ventured so far in the war off Japan, Halsey's force is carrying the attack to the only part of the enemy homeland previously untouched by offensive blows.

Joe Bainline, NBC correspondent aboard a warship off Hokkaido, broadcast that no Japanese warships or planes had yet been encountered. He said the fleet moved in for opening of the operation early Friday, the 13th, but dense fog, "which veterans of the European war compared to the worst days on the North Atlantis," forced postponement of the assault.

Bainline's broadcast, heard in Guam, said primary targets included railroad ferries linking north Honshu and Hokkaido across Tsugura straits.

Jack Mahon, Mutual Broadcasting Company war correspondent aboard a battleship, said one pilot destroyed a warehouse on Hokkaido just north of the ferries with a 500 pound bomb.

Two small boats were strafed and burned offshore, Mahon reported.

Assault Is Surprise

Both eyewitness accounts agreed there was no air opposition but Mahon quoted returning pilots as saying they ran into intense anti-aircraft fire although "it was wild and inaccurate."

The new onslaught, disclosed shortly after Adm. Chester W. Nimitz had reported Halsey's fleet last month rode out a typhoon in which 21 of the warships were damaged, followed by 24 hours a blast at five enemy centers on Japan by more than 500 Superforts.

Today's targets were airfields.

Complete tactical surprise again was achieved by the dawn-striking first waves of Hellcats and Corsairs in today's operation, aimed at pursuing the enemy airforce as it has steadily withdrawn and hid out since its last big onslaughts on recently-won Okinawa.

As in Tuesday's strike Vice Adm. John S. McCain headed up the carrier task force.

Nimitz' terse report that "the operations are being conducted in approximately the same strength" as on Tuesday suggested at least four big aircraft carriers and four battleships were involved.

Grand Haven Pair Wedded 70 Years

Grand Haven, Mich., July 13 (AP) —Mr. and Mrs. James H. Welch, believed to have been married longer than any couple in Michigan, will celebrate their 70th wedding anniversary Saturday in a trailer at the Spring Lake tourist camp near where their romance first blossomed.

The couple was married in Grand Haven and later removed Fond Du Lac, Wis., where he entered the motion picture business, retiring 30 years ago.

They gave "never quarreling" as their recipe for happiness.

They have one son, two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Babies Abandoned; Mother Gets Prison

Detroit, July 13 (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Anderson, 22, of Fenton, was sentenced today to 1 to 10 years in prison following her conviction in recorder's court of abandoning her two children.

She admitted leaving the children, Robert Lee, 2, and Stanley, 1, in a parked car because she was unable to care for them. Her husband, Donald, 21, is under arrest at Flint on charges of desertion and non-support.

Big Battleships Bombard Steel City On Honshu

By Leif Erickson

Guam, Saturday, July 14. (AP) — Battleships, cruisers and destroyers of the U. S. Third fleet began shelling the north Honshu steel city of Kamaishi today in the first naval bombardment of the Japanese homeland. At the same time, more than 1,000 carrier planes of the same force attacked northern Honshu and Hokkaido.

Both actions still are in progress, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced.

Fog Hides Approach

Kamaishi is 275 miles north of Tokyo. The warships steamed up and down well within 20 miles of the coast with complete disregard of the reluctant Japanese air force, which refused to oppose the carrier planes either at Tokyo on Tuesday or over Hokkaido and Honshu today.

The big carrier-plane strikes began at dawn in the fog and mist which made observation of results difficult but which had covered the fleet's approach.

The naval bombardment began at 11:51 a. m. Saturday, (Japanese time), (9:51 p. m., Friday, Eastern War time).

Back In Action

Nimitz named participating ships as including the big new fast battleships Massachusetts, Indiana, and South Dakota, the heavy cruisers Chicago, and Quincy, and the destroyers Southerland, Herman, Erben and Black. The Massachusetts and Indiana were among Third fleet ships disclosed to have been damaged in a terrific typhoon in the Western Pacific June 5, but have since been repaired.

The bombardment force is commanded by Rear Adm. J. F. Shafroth.

Twenty miles is regarded as the extreme effective range of the 16-inch guns of the battleships, so the fact that cruisers and destroyers were named indicated that presumably the bold bombardment force was much closer in—within the range of the destroyers' 5-inch guns, possibly five miles.

In offshore bombardments such as at Kaimishi, American ships customarily close to within one to nine miles from the coast, depending on the amount of opposition.

The fact that Nimitz named ships participating and stressed the bombardment still was going

PEACE CHARTER WINS APPROVAL

Public Hearings Wound Up; Committee Vote Is Unanimous

Washington, July 13. (AP)—The United Nations charter designed to preserve peace won approval from the senate foreign relations committee today, without a dissenting vote, without reservation and without amendment.

The committee wound up five days of public hearings at 4 p. m., deliberated a half hour, and voted 20 to 0 to recommend ratification.

The treaty will be formally reported to the senate next Monday just as it was signed by 50 nations at San Francisco.

Debate on the senate floor starts Monday, July 23, and may last two weeks or more.

Three of the 23 committee members were absent when the vote was taken—Senators Johnson (R-Cal.), 1919 foe of the League of Nations, Shipstead (R-Minn.) and Murray (D-Mont.).

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) said the senate will consume all of next week dealing with the Bretton Woods world banking plan and other pieces of legislation "so we can clear the decks for the charter."

The treaty sets up a world security council of the five major nations, U. S., USSR, Britain, France and China, and six smaller states charged with preventing aggression and employing force if necessary.

Job Jumpers Not In Physical Trim Won't Be Drafted

Lansing, July 13 (AP) — Michigan's draft boards have been notified not to induct so-called "job-jumpers" over 26 who do not meet the army's regular physical standards, state selective service headquarters announced today.

National selective service yesterday relaxed its regulations for men not physically fit over the age of 26, but job-jumper penalties remain in effect for all physically fit men, and for registrants under 26 who do not meet general physical requirements.

Officers at state headquarters said that during the six months the strict ruling was in effect, 930 Michigan men who did not meet physical requirements were inducted, and that "at least that many" who qualified for general service were inducted, after they left essential jobs without the approval of their draft board.

Suggestions Invited On Upper Peninsula Postwar Problems

Lansing, July 13 (AP)—The Upper Peninsula advisory committee of the state planning commission is asking help from residents of the area in giving priority to important problems facing Upper Michigan in the postwar period, the state planning commission reported today.

Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton and chairman of the committee, has called a meeting to be held July 27 in Houghton, and has invited Upper Peninsula citizens to send in suggestions before that date, the state office declared.

Dillman said one of the principal problems was to develop local manufacturing industries to utilize raw materials such as forest products and ore, now sent out of the state to be processed.

TRUMAN AVOIDS BIG 3 SECRETS

Presidential Cruiser Will Meet British Warships Today

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

Aboard Cruiser Augusta With President Truman, July 13 (AP)—President Truman was described today as firmly resolved against any secret commitments in the "big three" meeting starting Monday or Tuesday at Potsdam.

As the presidential cruiser steamed close to Europe, associates of the chief executive said he plans to report to congress as soon as he gets back home from his talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

The president was understood to be prepared to offer any reasonable American cooperation toward the rehabilitation of Europe, expecting in return assurances that the European countries will work together for adjustment of issues that might carry the germs of war. He was represented as feeling that a primary basis of American policy is readiness to help, when help would be welcome, in getting its friends together when they disagree.

Meetings today between Mr. Truman, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the president's chief of staff, were almost continuous.

Tomorrow has been fixed for the rendezvous with British warships which will convoy the president through British waters.

Mr. Truman will disembark at Antwerp for the flight to Potsdam, on Berlin's outskirts.

Tin Can Salvage Spurred By OCD

Lansing, July 13 (AP)—The State Office of Civilian Defense (OCD) today appealed to Michigan residents to intensify their salvage of tin cans, to meet current war demands and automotive reconversion requirements.

E. J. Anderson, chairman of the OCD's state salage committee, said the nation's stockpile of tin is only 30 per cent of the amount on hand at the time of Pearl Harbor.

He said the tin crisis would continue for some time after the end of the Japanese war.

Anderson warned that reconversion would be delayed if automobile manufacturers and others did not have enough tin, and that "to expedite the reconversion of the automotive and other industries is a patriotic duty."

Falangists Weeded Out By Gen. Franco

Madrid, July 13 (AP)—Generalissimo Franco now holds the resignations of all Falangist members of his cabinet, including Jose Luis Arrese, secretary general of the party, it was learned today.

One of the resignations has been accepted, it was reported, but the best available information was that at least seven of the 14 cabinet members will be released.

DELAY SOUGHT IN HOOPER CASE

Defense Attorneys Ask Postponement Of Trial Set For Monday

Battle Creek, Mich., July 13 (AP) —Defense attorneys today sought to postpone until September the opening of the Hooper murder conspiracy trial.

The trial was scheduled to start Monday, July 16.

A motion asking for a postponement was filed by R. G. Leitch and Theodore Rodgers, attorneys for the four Detroit men accused of conspiring to murder the late Senator Warren G. Hooper. They declared they needed more time to prepare their case.

At the same time Leitch filed a motion for a separate trial for Sam Fleisher, one of the defendants. The others are Fleisher's brother, Myron (Mike) Selik and Pete Mahoney.

Hooper, a key witness in the Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr's one-man grand jury investigation of graft in Michigan government, was shot to death January 11.

The defense attorneys said that the prosecution has had more time to prepare its case because of its connection with the grand jury. Kim Sigler, special grand jury prosecutor, also is special prosecutor in the murder conspiracy trial.

Leitch declared that this case has a "sensational" background and that unusual prosecution methods have resulted in a "group of newspaper reporters who follow Sigler from place to place and who write sensational articles concerning the trial."

BRIDGE ENGINEER DIES

END OF SHAEF IN EUROPE IS NOW OFFICIAL

RECORD OF ALLIED COOPERATION IS UNBLEMISHED

BY JAMES M. LONG

Paris, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force, which led the way to victory, passed out of existence at one minute after midnight this morning with an unblemished record of Allied cooperation.

General Eisenhower, the supreme commander, closed up his command with an order of the day expressing the hope that the unity achieved in the war would help inspire "permanent and lasting peace."

The Allied western powers, once more resuming individual control of their own forces, will begin their major test of voluntary international co-ordination.

Eisenhower Says Goodbye

The end of "SHAEF"—the Rainbow Shield and Flaming Sword—will be automatic at the prearranged hour, without ceremony, 17 months and one day after it came into existence in London.

General Eisenhower, who returned to his Frankfurt, Germany, headquarters from the United States on Wednesday, said his personal goodbyes to his staff of officers from the nations whose armies he led to victory.

Then, to all the mighty force he commanded—Doughboys, Tommies and Poilus—he issued this farewell today:

"The task which we set ourselves is finished and the time has come for me to relinquish the combined command.

"In the name of the United States and the British Commonwealth, from which my authority is derived, I should like to convey to you the gratitude and admiration of our two nations for the manner in which you have responded to every demand that has been made upon you."

It's USFET Now

From the supreme command Gen. Eisenhower stepped to his new job as commander of USFET —United States Forces in the European Theater—and as American representative on the European control council at Berlin.

British forces reverted to control of the British war office, air ministry and admiralty, and French forces to the French war ministry.

This is what happened to take the place of the former overall SHAEF command set-up:

All United States forces in the European theater now come under USFET and Gen. Eisenhower's command, whether in Germany, France or England. U. S. headquarters, at least for the time being, will be at Frankfurt.

Under USFET there will be two major groups, or functions. One of these is the communications zone, commanded by Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee. Its operation remains virtually unchanged by dissolution of SHAEF. Its old function of getting supplies up to the active zone has turned, however, into the major task of getting men and material out of this theater.

The second major category is that of occupation and control until such time as the present transitional state settles down into a fixed American army of occupation; that category has no specific troops of its own. But it covers all American troops in Germany, whether there to stay or not, and embraces Lt. Gen. Lucius

NEW DIRECTORY IS PUBLISHED

Service Men Scattered All Over World Are Listed

Escanaba and Gladstone have a new city directory regardless of wartime handicaps.

The 1945 edition, now being delivered to subscribers by R. L. Polk & Co., is a handy volume of 404 pages listing more than 10,000 names in Escanaba, Gladstone, Nahma, Rapid River and Wells. This count considers the names of man and wife as only one name, and eighteen was continued as the minimum listing age.

Prominent throughout the pages of the directory are the names of service men and women, some of them now returning to civil life, but the majority still scattered over the world. All are listed at their home addresses, with initials to denote the branch to which each is attached. Thus the city directory stands as public historical evidence of their service to the country, both for the far future and for the more immediate record as they settle to civilian occupations.

Special regular features in the "yearbook" are the designation of tenant-owned homes ,marital status and heads of households; also the listing of the given names of wives.

This community's variety of enterprise is shown in the classified pages of the directory, where 260 groups of business are catalogued from "Abstracts of Title" to "Wood Dealers."

In spite of the wartime shortages, there will be the customary distribution of the latest Escanaba and Gladstone City Directory to the free-reference directory libraries of other cities, the publishers announced. They stated that the emergency conditions and wide dispersal of people working in war plants and fighting a global war have caused more consultation of city directories than ever before in directory history. R. L. Polk & Co. maintain an Out-of-Town Directory Library for public reference at the offices of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

First and last on the new Escanaba roster are Mrs. Susan Abott and Erwin F. Zuehlke. In Gladstone it is Winfred Aasve and John Zuball. Oddities among the family names listed include Primrose and Youngchild. Famous World War II names represented here include Allen, Arnold, Bradley, Clark, Collins, Ingersoll, King, Krueger, Marshall, Montgomery, Patton, Simpson and Smith.

Two Highway Jobs Under Way In U. P.

Two state highway projects are underway in the Upper Peninsula and a third was recently completed, according to State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler. The finished job was concrete patching on US-2 north of St. Ignace in Mackinac county.

The jobs now underway are as follows:

Alger—Non-skid surface treatment of 21 miles of M-28 from the end of the pavement concrete west of Munising west to the Marquette county line, started by the Barber Paving & Engineering Co., Chicago.

Marquette — Similar treatment on the adjoining 11.4 miles of M-28 in Marquette county from the Alger county line west to the junction with US-41 about five miles south of Marquette city, started by Payne & Dolan Co., Milwaukee.

Mrs. Chas. Oliver Dies In Hancock

Hancock—Mrs. Charles O. Olivier, a promenent resident of Hancock, passed away in St. Joseph's hospital at 9:30 Wednesday night after an illness of two weeks.

Mrs. Oliver came to Hancock in 1870. She was a member of one of the Copper Country's oldest pioner families, a family that has been closely affiliated with the business, social and religious life of the community. She was born in St. Bartheleni, Quebec, Canada, May 24, 1860, and was a young girl when the Jacques family settled in the Copper Country.

Her father, Zachary Jacques, came to the newly opened Copper Country in 1857. He landed at Eagle River in Keweenaw county and came direct to Houghton, where he worked as a building contractor for the late Ransom Shelden. After a period of time in Houghton, he returned to Canada, where he married. He returned to the district in 1870 with his wife and young daughter. He was for many years construction engineer in Hancock for the old Lake Superior Smelting Co., until 1904, the year of his death.

SGT. JOHNSON CIVILIAN AGAIN

Foster City Hero Gets Discharge; Arriving Home Tonight

Sgt. Oscar Johnson, of Foster City, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, America's highest decoration for valor, was given his honorable discharge from the U. S. Army at the Fort Sheridan, Ill., separation center yesterday afternoon and will return to his father's dairy farm at Foster City this evening, the public relations office at Fort Sheridan has announced.

Sgt. Johnson will arrive at Iron Mountain at 7:17 p. m. tonight on the Milwaukee Road Chippewa streamliner.

The only upper peninsula soldier to win the nation's highest honor in this war, Sgt. Johnson was awarded the medal by General Mark Clark in Italy for killing 40 German soldiers, silencing three enemy machineguns and capturing 24 prisoners.

Under the army's recently established point system, an award of a Congressional Medal of Honor automatically entitles the recipient to his discharge, regardless of any other considerations.

PULLMAN OFF SUNDAY NIGHT

Sleeper Car Service To End At Noon Tomorrow

In compliance with ODT Order No. 53, the Chicago and North Western railway is discontinuing the use of Pullman car 88 on train 161 and sleeper 89 on train 162, effective Sunday noon, July 15. Trains 161 and 162 are the north and southbound passenger runs between Ishpeming and Chicago.

Pullman car 88 will make its last trip to Ishpeming early Sunday morning, and then will be deadheaded back to Chicago Sunday morning on the Peninsula "400" streamliner. There will be no sleeper service Sunday night on train 162, Chicago bound.

Sportsmen Asked To Check Poachers

Lansing—It's up to conservation-minded sportsmen of Michigan—hunters and fishermen — to help check raids on the state's game and fish supplies by meat hungry violators of conservation laws.

Conservation department law enforcement officers are faced with their biggest task ever in checking operations of deer "shiners" and takers of undersized fish.

Scores of arrests are being made in northern counties and some brushes with violators of game laws are reminiscent of prohibition days. Gladwin county officers recently arrested two men for "shining" deer after a 14-mile chase at speeds ranging from 80 to 90 miles an hour.

Stiffest possible penalties for violations are sought and justices of the peace in northern counties are cooperating, fines of $50 and jail sentences of 45 days having been handed down in some instances.

GOV. OSBORN RETURNS

Sault Ste. Marie—Restful atmosphere of Duck Island, a place he loves, is expected to hasten the recovery of former Gov. Chase S. Osborn, who came north yesterday from an Albany, Ga., hospital, where he was taken after suffering a broken hip in a fall at Poulan, Ga.

Gov. Osborn was brought here from Mackinaw City in an ambulance and taken to Duck Island in a 75-foot Coast Guard boat in command of Chief Boatswain's Mate Bill Leigh, no other mode of transportation being available.

News From Men In The Service

With the 33rd Division on Luzon —Pfc. Edward C. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Johnson, Route 1 Escanaba, has been promoted from private and awarded the Combat Infantry Badge for exemplary action against the Japs on Northern Luzon. He is a rifleman with the 136th Infantry, 33rd Division.

Pfc. Johnson had his first taste of combat against the Japs in the Lawican sector in the drive to liberate Baguio, the summer capital of the Philippines.

In civilian life, Pfc. Johnson was a farmer. He was inducted into the army at Fort Sheridan, Ill. on September 1, 1944 and received his basic training at Camp Robinson, Ark., before going overseas to the Philippines in February 1945. He joined the 136th Infantry on Luzon and is now near Baguio.

In addition to his Combat Infantry Badge, Pfc. Johnson also is eligible to wear the Asiatic Pacific Theatre Ribbon and the Philippine Liberation Ribbon with a battle star for the Luzon campaign.

Recent graduation ceremonies at the Naval Training School (Radio) on the campus of the Wisconsin University, Madison, Wisconsin qualified Bluejacket John R. Joran, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Joran, 1629 Sheridan Road, Escanaba, Mich as a radio operator with the fleet.

Selection to attend the specialty school was made on the basis of recruit training aptitude tests. The complete course of study included the operation, function and maintenance of radio transmitting and receiving equipment, as well as the sending and receiving of messages in international code. This training has been designed to fit him for a specialized Navy job in the long Pacific war ahead and also for skilled work in industry when peace comes.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Sgt. Cletus A. Richard, 21, of Germfask, Mich., recently was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in action on the Fifth Army front during the Italian Campaign.

He is a squad leader with the 361st Infantry Regiment, 91st "Powder River" Division.

When his company was halted in an attack by intense German machine gun and rifle fire, Richard rushed forward and emplaced his mortar in an exposed position, the citation related.

With enemy fire striking all about him, he cooly fired the mortar alone. His accurate fire neutralized two German machine-gun positions and caused two other machine gun crews to surrender to advancing riflemen. Six enemy were killed, three wounded and eight captured.

A farmer in civilian life, Richard entered service in March, 1943. His mother, Mrs. Lucy Richard, lives on Route 1, Germfask.

Harold David Thomas, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher, Rapid River, Michigan, and Robert Anderson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson, 1417 No. 22nd St., Escanaba are receiving initial Naval indoctrination at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

When their recruit training is completed, the seamen will receive a period of leave.

ASCENSION VEGETABLES

Ascension Island, soilless and containing only volcanic ash and cinders, is proving to be the production center of some of the greatest morale builders supplied to our men in the Pacific. The development of soilless or chemical gardens there has made it possible to supply our fighting men with fresh, green foods, of the type we take for granted, but which are a luxury and a reminder of home to a fighting man.

REISS COAL CO. FILES PROTEST

Objects To Increase In Tax Valuation On Its Property

The Escanaba board of review and City Clerk Carl E. Anderson have been notified by the C. Reiss Coal company through its manager, R. J. Smith, that it is protesting "some of the assesments of the company's property' and that it will pay taxes on those valuations under protest.

If the company follows through on its protest it may appeal to the state tax commission for a review of the assessment, and the commission will order a hearing on the protest.

According to assessment records the total valuation of the company's property, a coal dock on the north shore, was set at $175,325 this year. This figure includes real property valued by the city at $85,325 and personal property totaling $90.000.

The 1945 assessed valuation figure, including both real and personal property, is $50,325 above that of last year.

Last year the company's property was assessed at a total of $125,000. Of this total $95,000 was real property and $30,000 was personal.

The tax rolls also show that in 1944 the valuations on the company's property were reduced $24,225. The 1943 total valuation was $149,225, of which $119,225 and $30,000 was personal property.

The letter of protest from the company's representative here was dated June 23, and cited the following claims: That the value of the land is nearer $1,000 an acre than the city figure of $3,000 an acre; that $25,000 was a closer value for the dock bridge runways than $45,170 placed by the city; that the bridge on the dock should be valued at $40,000 rather than $60,000; and other minor valuations were too high.

"If our property is assessed at 73 per cent of true cash value, which seems to be the rule adopted in Escanaba, our assessment will be far below that which you now propose," the letter stated. "If we must pay taxes on fictitious values, we must serve notice on you that those taxes will be paid under protest, in accordance with law, and the justness and fairness of the assessment will be tested out in a proper action to recover the excessive taxes demanded."

The increase in the company's assessed valuation was made by the board of review following a reappraisal of all taxable properties in the city by the J. M. Clemenshaw company. On the basis of the information supplied by the appraisal firm the board of review took no action to change the valuations under protest by the company.

HERRING RULE IS UNCHANGED

Request Of Wisconsin's Fishermen Is Denied

Madison, Wis. — Categorically denying the appeal of a group of Green bay pound net fishermen, the state conservation commission last night refused to modify the recently enacted rule limiting the catch of herring in Green bay to fish of 10 inches or more in length.

The pound net operators, represented by Ray Evrard, Green Bay lawyer, asserted that they are not able to comply with the rule because their nets take a large proportion of fish of less than the legal length.

They said that there is a ready market for the smaller fish, and that the government is urging an increase in the fish harvest. They appealed for a modification of the June order so that they would be allowed to keep and to sell the little fish that are presently ruled illegal, alleging that they now die after being caught in the nets and are thereby wasted.

Hear From Patterson

The commission denied the proposal after hearing from Matt Patterson of Sturgeon Bay, superintendent of commercial fishing for the state, George Hadland, Green Bay warden, and Dr. Edward Schneberger, head of the state fisheries division.

They noted that the fishermen can if they choose to do so adjust their pound nets, or switch to dip nets and operate within the limitations of the new herring law.

YOUTHS ENJOY SAILING JOBS

Attractive Wages Paid Sailors On Lake Carriers

Since the close of school, scores of teen age youths, mostly 17, a few only 16, have been flocking to hiring halls in Great Lakes ports, eager to become sailors in the lake fleet.

According to marine men, this youth movement is a byproduct of the war and the manpower shortage. A peak was reached in the employment of young fresh water sailors in 1943 and 1944; and there is little abatement in 1945.

High wages, considering that room and board are part of the pay aboard ship, as well as a chance for adventure, are the incentive. The prime requisite for any lad with this idea in mind, say marine men, is a notarized letter of consent from parents or guardian, for without it a minor has no chance of employment. There are other requirements, too, such as the necessary number of identification photos, passport book, or service record, that is issued by the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection with offices in the federal building in Marquette.

Some Limit Work

Some marine inspection offices are stricter than others and limit applicants to a choice of work exclusively in the steward's department of the vessel.

The wage scale of lake freighters this season for the jobs to which the youngsters are eligible ranges from $4.63 a day to $5.16. The $4.63 is the rate for waiters. Porters in the steward's department are paid $5.09 on boats with contracts with the NMU. Deckhands or ordinary seamen are paid $5.16, as are the coal passers and wipers in the engine department. The scale is for an eight hour day, two four-hour watches, seven days a week.

Intensify Search For The Body Of Lt. Birkenmeier

The Escanaba flotilla of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve was ordered into active service yesterday afternoon, and six regular Coast Guards from Sault Ste. Marie arrived here last night as the search for the body of Lt. John H. Birkenmeier was intensified.

Lt. Birkenmeier was drowned July 7 in Little Bay de Noc when a canoe overturned in which he and his sister were riding. The sister, Marion, 14, was rescued on the Stonington shore. She had clung to the canoe for six hours.

Ensign A. L. Wentworth of the Escanaba flotilla of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve, yesterday telephoned the Coast Guard district office at Cleveland to request that the Reserve be returned to active duty "until the body is found." The Reserve is composed largely of local yachtsmen, and several power boats will be used in the search.

One or two of the Coast Guard Reserve boats will be out each day with a crew of six men on each boat. Rowboats will be towed behind, and shore patrols also will be maintained while dragging continues from the power boats.

A picket boat from the Plum Island Coast Guard station, the Escanaba city tug, and the Escanaba lighthouse launch also will be used in the search which is new entering its seventh day.

DEATH CLAIMS CHARLES STONE

Had Been Resident Of Stonington Past 45 Years

Charles A. Stone, 73, a farmer of Stonington the past 45 years, died at St. Francis hospital 1:15 o'clock yesterday morning following a year's illness.

Mr. Stone was born in Stockholm, Sweden, April 7, 1872, and lived a few years in Escanaba before moving to Stonington. Besides his widow, he is survived by a son and two daughters, Carl Joseph Stone, Mrs. Willard Wiedbrauk and Mrs. Albert Nelson, all of Stonington; and eight grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home, and will be returned to the family residence in Stonington Sunday afternoon. Funeral services will be held at the family home 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon and at the Bethel Lutheran church at 2 o'clock, with Rev. L. R. Lund of Escanaba officiating. Burial will be in Lakewood cemetery.

They Look to the Future

TO THOSE who expect important developments in agriculture in this region after the war it is encouraging to note that the Michigan Potato Development association will meet in Escanaba on July 18.

The scheduling of the meeting demonstrates that the members are still deeply interested in the problem of better merchandising and advertising of their product. Not all farmers see the situation in this light, however. They are obtaining ceiling prices for their potatoes, so some of them quickly dismiss the matter of spending money for advertising and other promotional work.

Manufacturers of nationally known consumer goods are in the same position as the potato farmers. Just now they do not have to advertise to sell what they are producing, but nevertheless they are maintaining their advertising budgets. They want to keep their name before the public so they will be able to get their share of the business in the postwar era when competition will be keen again.

Upper Peninsula farmers will not always be able to dispose of their potatoes for top prices regardless of their quality. After the war, there will be surpluses instead of shortages, and the business will go to those enterprising farmers of Michigan, Idaho, Maine and other states, who raise high quality potatoes, grade, clean and market them in attractive packages, along with the right kind of advertising. Fortunately, active members of the Michigan Potato Development association see this picture clearly.

Dearborn's "Gag" Rule

THERE is a natural inclination to view Dearborn's official family feud over its recently enacted "gag" law with amusement, but fundamentally the principle involved is one directly affecting the basic liberties of all Americans.

Because the city council of Dearborn feared that Mayor Orville Hubbard was getting in some strong political licks by personal contacts with departing army inductees, welcoming newcomers to the community, interviewing property owners regarding the efficiency of the fire department, etc., the council adopted an ordinance designed to prohibit these activities by the mayor unless first approved by a newly-created public relations bureau.

The mayor, showing traditional American defiance of un-American restrictions on personal liberties, flouted the ordinance deliberately to test the validity of the law, which he contends infringes on the right of free speech. The matter now is before the municipal court in Dearborn.

Mayor Hubbard's contention that the "gag" ordinance encroaches upon constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech is well taken. If the Dearborn city council could make this gag rule stick, other city governing agencies could do likewise, abridging free speech not only of duly elected public officials but of the citizenry as a whole, as well. It could well be an opening wedge to infringe on the traditional right of freedom of the press.

Freedom of speech is the most cherished right of all Americans through the years since the birth of the nation. It is the basic guarantee for the preservation of democracy.

If the people of Dearborn dislike the activities of their mayor, they possess the authority to remove him from office, but the gag ordinance conceived by the city council is so fundamentally wrong in principle that it deserves the uncompromising condemnation of every American everywhere.

There is reason to believe that the Dearborn gag ordinance will not stand the test of judicial scrutiny. It is too reprehensible from the American viewpoint of personal liberties.

Gov. Kelly's Plans

WHY Governor Kelly chose to make an announcement of his political plans at this early stage is somewhat puzzling, but it appears definite that he will neither seek reelection to his office in 1946 nor oppose Arthur H. Vandenberg for the Republican senatorial nomination.

The fact that Lt. Gov. Vernon J. Brown, an intimate friend and close political ally of Governor Kelly, announced he would be a candidate for governor in 1946 gives credence to Kelly's statement that he will return to private life.

The governor gave no reasons for his contemplated retirement from politics. Most logical explanation would be that he has found that public office, even the highest in the state, is not as remunerative as many people suppose. After the governor has paid political campaign and other personal expenses, he finds he has little left to set aside for the inevitable rainy day.

Lt. Gov. Brown will enter the Republican gubernatorial race, apparently with Kelly's blessing. But he is unlikely to get the nomination without a contest, for lurking in the political shadows is the figure of Dr. Eugene Keyes, who was ousted from the lieutenant governorship because Governor Kelly did not want him in that office. The political pot will be really boiling in Michigan in 1946.

Just A Suggestion

PROBABLY this could not be worked out, but someone has suggested it might be a good idea for Escanaba and Gladstone to work out a cooperative arrangement for municipal band concerts during the summer.

Gladstone once had a city band, and there are still some good musicians there who could be used to fill the chairs of the Escanaba municipal band, made vacant by members who have gone into military service or have moved to other cities. A twin city band, such as that operating in Menominee and Marinette, could give regular concerts in Escanaba and Gladstone.

It would provide fine music for both communities, and would be helpful in promoting neighborly relations. The idea is offered only as a suggestion. There is the problem of joint financing of such a musical enterprise, but if the idea is any good this wrinkle doubtless could be ironed out without much difficulty.

It's A Good Idea

MORE restrictions on civilian travel are predicted by J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, and there can be no quarrel on this point for everyone recognizes that the movement of troops is of paramount interest in wartime.

There will be quite general approval, too, of the demand by Rep. De Lacy, Democrat of Washington, that the use of private cars be discontinued until the present emergency is passed. Some wealthy families are still in a position to use private cars for gallivanting around the country. Such luxury surely can be dispensed with now, and the same goes for railroad executives, who can transact their business just as well by traveling like any other busy business men.

"Make way for the troops" should be the battlecry on the home front for the time being.

Other Editorial Comments

OUR FIRST DELEGATE

(New York Times)

The president's decision to make Mr. Stettinius the American representative in the United Nations Security council and chairman of our delegation in the assembly will be welcomed in this country and abroad as a logical and eminently suitable choice. As secretary of state he did a brilliant job in San Francisco. No one has worked more effectively to bring the new world organization to birth. The personal tributes paid to him in the closing sessions testify to the confidence and admiration he has won in our own and other delegations by his steady good temper and his unfailing faith that the conference had to succeed and would succeed.

Mr. Stettinius has shown a devotion amounting to dedication to the idea of international co-operation. It is fitting, therefore, that he should be assigned to carry on the work he has so well begun. He is prepared for it not only by San Francisco but by his experience as lend-lease administrator. He knows the difficulties that have been surmounted and the difficulties that lie ahead. He knows the men who will be associated with the second stage of the slow process of international organization. For him it is at once a high honor and a heavy responsibility to be the first representative of the United States in our initial participation in the councils of the world. For the united nations the appointment of the secretary of state to be our delegate, coming immediately after the ceremonial adoption of the charter, is an expression of American confidence that gives the undertaking the best possible start.

IT'S TOO GOOD

(Chicago Journal of Commerce)

There are great possibilities in civilian use of the army's powerful and magic bug and louse powder known as DDT. Unfortunately most of them seem to be bad.

This chemical, which could free picnics of the menace of red ants and scourge various pests from the farms, could also upset the balance of nature, according to authorities interviewed by the cosmopolite New Yorker. All the good bugs would be destroyed along with the destructive insects, and since 90 per cent of the critters benefit man by pollenizing crops and feeding birds and fish, disaster could result from indiscriminate use of DDT.

Furthermore, one of these authorities is so reactionary as to believe that the bad 10 per cent can't be eliminated entirely without upsetting the economy. If the south wipes out the pink bollworm there will be tremendous cotton crops, a slump in prices and countless Tobacco Roads.

So it appears that DDT can be used safely only in the home. But you'll have to keep it away from the hearth if you want a cricket on same.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q. I have noticed that many prominent writers and commentators start a sentence with the indefinite "one" and then follow with "he," as: "When one has seen the war actually being fought, he changes many of his notions about it." Will you please discuss?

A. In careful usage, the indefinite "one" should be used throughout such a sentence. The locution, which at best has a rather British ring to it, can easily be overdone. In a long sentence, too many "one's" has an affected and artificial sound, as: One must be on one's guard against imposing on one's friends, mustn't one?

Instead of writing such a stilted sentence, it is far better to drop the "one" construction altogether, thus: We must guard agains imposing on our friends.

Trying to write "elegantly" usually produces the opposite result. E. H., of Los Angeles, sends a clipping of a book advertisement which bears this headline in large type: "WHOM IS SYLVIA?" Appropriately the book is titled, "Cuckoo Time." Of course, the proper construction is: WHO IS SYLVIA?

"Whom" is always acted upon. In our sentence, the verb "is" expresses no action. It is part of the verb "to be" and merely denotes a condition or state of being.

Now, if the verb expresses action, whom is the proper word, thus: It is she of whom I speak. "Speak" is the action word.

Note that "whom" usually follows a preposition: of whom, in whom, about whom, at whom, from whom, against whom, etc.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Meeting in the ruins of ruined Europe, the Big Three and their military chieftains will have plenty to talk about if they begin to settle the problems that seem to spring up everywhere out of the chaos war has left in its wake.

Childs

But they will also have to consider the war still to be won in the Pacific. Too many questions have gone unanswered for too long. Too many uncertainties cast doubt on the shape the Pacific war will take in its final phase.

Marshal Stalin may decide to go for a walk while the Pacific is under discussion. Russia is still at peace with Japan, or, it is possible that all Pacific discussion may be postponed for a conference in London to follow the Berlin meeting.

—JAP WAR ON AGENDA—

Sooner or later, however, before President Truman comes home, an effort will be made to clarify the shape of things to come in the far Pacific. First and foremost is the question of Britain's role in the war against Japan, and then, directly related to this, is a tough one: Will American troops be used in the mop-up phase to retake the colonial possessions of the British, Dutch and French?

Strange as it may seem, there has been no clarification of the role of the two partners who fought side by side in western Europe. That has been left in a kind of gray zone of uncertainty while American fighting strength in the Far East grew to incredible proportions.

At the first opportunity, Britain wanted to have her own fleet in the Pacific. That desire, it is true, caused some resentment in our navy. But this had nothing to do with any emotion as simple as jealousy.

The explanation lay in one word—supply. The British said they could supply their own fleet, but our naval commanders had their fingers crossed on that. They felt they would have more than enough to do if they supplied our own mushrooming forces in the Pacific. While from time to time the British have called on us for help, they are now becoming self-sustaining.

More important was the question of where the British were to operate with their fleet. That will be decided, it is hoped, during the coming months.

—WILL REVISE COMMAND—

A plan has been worked up here for a complete revision of command in the Pacific. Under this proposal, the command in the southwest would go to the British. It is now part of General MacArthur's vast domain. The line would fall just north of Indo-China and just south of the Philippines.

Within this new command, as a glance at the map makes clear, are virtually all the colonies of the European powers still occupied by the Jap. It would be the task of the British command to retake those colonies.

Our own joint chiefs of staff are reported to have put their okay on that plan. The details, as carefully worked out by staff planners, are being taken in sealed and carefully guarded brief cases to the Berlin meeting. What is more, President Truman is believed, tentatively at least, to have agreed to the change.

Most of America's mounting strength on the other side of the world will be pointed up to the all-out assault on Japan. Presumably, that will be almost entirely an American show. The casualties are certain to be heavy; heavier, probably, than even at Iwo Jima or Okinawa.

—WILL BE LONG JOB—

The cleanup of the home islands is certain to be prolonged and costly. Likewise, occupation of Japan proper will present grave difficulties.

While no one ventures to talk in terms of exactly how long this will take, it cannot come in the near future. An assault on Japan will require at least twice the strength we mustered against Hitler's Europe on D-Day.

There is no reason, of course, why the British with their forces should not move in to Malaya or Java before the main attack comes. At the present moment, Australian troops are consolidating their conquest of Borneo and the rich oil resources of Ballkpapan. Borneo may set the pattern for future operations in the British command.

We will all benefit from clearer definitions, in the vast theater of the Pacific. Too much has been left to chance. The clamor for definition of unconditional surrender reflects the uncertainty many people feel over the direction of the war against Japan. We will all hope that those definitions come out of the momentous meetings soon to be held.

TO START YOUNG—It has often been suggested that the place to start teaching safe driving is with the youngster in school. Now this method is to be applied in the coming year in 25 of the larger high schools, public and parochial, of the Upper Peninsula.

Dunathan

So says Cpl. Ralph Sheahan of the Marquette detachment, Michigan State Police.

"You're always looking for something to write about in your column," said Ralph. "Why don't you tell your readers about the new driving education course to be presented in high schools next year?"

And so here it is, with additional information and observations for which Ralph is not responsible.

* * *

TEACHING THE TEACHERS—The driving education course to be offered high school students will follow a uniform pattern, for the teachers will learn their subject at a training course to open at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, on August 20.

Twenty-five teachers from U. P. high schools will gather at Marquette to receive the information which they will pass along to the students after high school opens. Most of the 25 teachers who will take the training course will be men, although there may be a few women.

Cpl. Sheehan says definitely that the old bogey about women drivers had nothing to do with the selection of teachers to receive the training. The selections are made by the schools, usually men who are already teaching classes related in one way or another to subjects allied to mechanics and the operation of machines. At the same time, however, the selections were based on the teaching ability of the faculty member whose responsibility it will be to instruct the students in safe driving practices.

THE BIG JOB—From this distance it seems almost certain that driver education classes will certainly be popular — but most difficult for the teacher. Any parent who has attempted to teach his son or daughter to drive a car will understand. There is no one more certain that an automobile is designed for rocket-gun starts and B-29 turns than a teen-age driver.

* * *

NOT A FRILL — These same parents who have had the unhappy experience of trying to teach their young son or daughter to handle the family car safely and sanely should welcome the teaching of safe driving in our high schools. Certainly they should not think of it as "another frill."

Mounting toll in dead and injured on highways of the United States should be argument enough that a definite driving problem exists. And if through driver education courses in our schools we can prevent even a small percentage of these accidents, the whole program is definitely worthwhile.

* * *

MAY BE START — Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette is the first teachers' college in Michigan to sponsor a course of driving education for high school teachers. It may open the way to additional training courses for teachers, which would spread the program throughout this state and perhaps the nation.

The teacher training course at Marquette will open Aug. 20 and will continue for five and one-half days. The attendance is limited to 25 because of the facilities. The course is for 44 hours, and 30 of these hours is in driver training—the safe and proper operation of automobiles.

Teachers taking the course of instruction will receive college credits for their work.

* * *

IT CAN WORK—These teachers will return to their class rooms in 25 Upper Peninsula high schools and this coming year will instruct an estimated 9,000 boys and girls in safe and proper driving methods. The course for the students will be not less than 40 hours.

In those 40 hours the teen age boy and girl will be instructed in the mechanics of the automobile and its proper operation, the traffic and safety rules and the importance in observing them.

Certainly such courses should have a beneficial effect upon the future driving population. As compared with the present methods of learning to drive a car, it is far superior. Youth can and should be taught that the automobile is more than a pleasure vehicle.

* * *

OF THE FUTURE—In the years to come highway transportation undoubtedly will increase, despite the promise of greater air travel. This increase will mean not only more passenger cars, but more trucks, more trailers, more motorcycles.

The factor of safety on the highway will increase in importance as the volume of traffic grows. Unless drivers are educated to operate their vehicles carefully the prewar highway accident toll will look small in comparison with that of 1955.

The start that is being made in the education of the student driver of high school age becomes highly important. Such a program continued over a period of years should prevent thousands of needless traffic accidents.

—Clint Dunathan.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

The state highway department received approval from Washington of the program it has chartered for the improvement of Michigan roads. More than five million dollars have been set aside for the Upper Peninsula.

Max Schmeling, German boxing champion, has been teamed up with Max Baer for a September fight. The German boxer has become a Nazi according to reports from Germany.

The Gladstone postoffice has been completed and will be ready for use by the middle of this week. The post office will be one of the finest in the country for its size.

John Coleman Walch and Warren Cleary have left Monday in company of J. H. Shipman Great Northwoods club, boy's summer camp.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Tonkin and children, Eleanor, James and Kenneth, 809 South Fourteenth street, have left for a two weeks' trip in the East. They will visit in Washington, D. C., Atlanta City and New York City.

Secretary O. I. Bandeen, of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, left yesterday for Evanston, Ill., where he will attend for several weeks a school being conducted under the auspices of the National Association of Secretaries of Civic and Commercial Organizations.

Lyman M. Beggs has been chosen president of the Escanaba Board of Education while Louis Schemmel was reelected secretary and Dr. Roy H. Banks was again chosen treasurer.

The Misses Irene Villemure and Estelle Beidelman returned Wednesday aboard the steamer Caroline after spending several days visiting friends and points of interest in Chicago.

Dr. Alvord Sanderson and wife of Detroit are visitors of Mrs. F. L. Baldwin and family, Ogden avenue.

The Lyons Den

—By Leonard Lyons

THE PLAYWRIGHT'S THE THING—A visitor at the home of Eugene O'Neill was told by the playwright: "Come with me for a moment. I want to show you something of which I'm very proud." He led the guest to the dresser in his bedroom and started rummaging through the drawers. O'Neill pushed aside the Pulitzer Prize medal he won for "Anna Christie"; he pushed aside the second Pulitzer Prize medal he won for "Beyond the Horizon," and the third medal for "Strange Interlude." He tossed aside the Nobel Prize parchment, found another document and held it up. "Here. This is it." said O'Neill, and displayed his able-bodied seaman's certificate.

O'Neill now has a number of plays written and ready for production. "I don't feel like going to New York to have them produced," he said . . . "Why not just send them to N. Y. and let them be produced while you stay in California?" someone suggested . . . "The last time I did that," said O'Neill, "the play was 'Dynamo' and the only thing the people remembered was Claudette Colbert's legs."

When George Jean Nathan and Sidney Kingsley had a dispute, a mutual friend who tried to reunite them was told by Nathan: "I'll take you to the opening of Kingsley's new play, and I'll let you write my review of it. I reserve only the right to punctuate it." . . "When I write a review," the mutual friend warned the critic, "I use a lot of praising adjectives" . . . "And when I punctuate," said Nathan, "I use a lot of question marks."

Lou Holtz once trouped with the late Arnold Daly, who for years had been devoting his time to a lady of great beauty but no intellect. "How can you bear her, all these years?" Holtz asked. "She's pretty, but she's so stupid" . . . "I owe it all to Shaw," Daly replied . . . "Shaw," asked Holtz "You mean George Bernard Shaw? How does he figure in this?" . . . "He figures in this very much," Daly explained, She is the most beautiful girl I know. I also know that she isn't bright. So every year I get on a boat, go to London, spend six weeks with my good friend G. B. Shaw—and get enough brain-stimulant to last me until next year."

When Beryl Markham, the aviatrix, flew the Atlantic and then received a number of theatre offers, Shaw was asked whether he thought she should be presented in theatres at $2,500 a week. "Flying the Atlantic doesn't qualify a woman to appear on the stage as an actress," said Shaw; "for the same reason that being an actress wouldn't qualify a woman to fly the Atlantic."

Clifford Odets' father, Louis J. Odets, manufactured mattresses in Philadelphia. The senior Odets published a catalogue describing his wares, and called upon his eminent son to help make the catalogue readable . . . Odets, a proletarian spokesman at that time, contributed one phrase to this mattress catalogue: "Civilization harasses people."

Paul Osborn, who made the hit dramatization of John Hersey's "A Bell for Adano," once attended a cocktail party where, after he had sipped many drinks, he was introduced to a strange lady who proceeded to ask his advice about playwrighting. Osborn gave the advice freely. Then, a few months later, he saw the lady's photo in the newspapers. Her name was Rose Franken and her photo was published because her first play, "Another Language," was a success. Osborn went to see the play, then sought out Miss Franken. "Tell me, just what was the advice I gave you?" Osborn asked her. "Because I was a bit tight at the time and now I myself would like to know it."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington — One complaint President Truman constantly makes to old friends in the Senate is: "You don't know how lonely I am."

But the President was not lonely on his last night in Independence, Mo. It was one of his most enjoyable evenings since he entered the White House. Truman spent it playing poker with old friends, all members of the "Harpy Club." an organization of independence business men, founded in 1925. The game was at the home of Louis L. Compton, owner and manager of an Independence bottling works.

Pearson

Truman, as the home-town boy who made good, was given the honor of dealing the first hand. It was dealer's choice and he chose seven-card stud.

All players, nine of them, dropped out except the President and John Hutchinson, an Independence coal dealer. Six cards were dealt. Hutchinson had two jacks showing and another jack down.

The President, who had bluffed Hutchinson into two raises, had two queens showing and nothing down except a nine-spot and a seven-spot.

Came the last card. Hutchinson drew a tray, Truman a queen. That gave the President three queens to Hutchinson's three jacks, and he raked in the pot.

It amounted to $1.65.

NOTE—Missouri friends are hoping Truman will be just as good a poker player when he sits down with the best of all diplomatic card sharks—Joe Stalin.

—ARMY DISCHARGE SNAFU—

When the war department announced its demobilization plan on May 12, it set up the 85 point requirement for discharge and also announced that a revised figure would be given within 45 days, or by June 27. It is now July 14, and millions of men are still waiting for that announcement.

Meanwhile more headaches, heartaches and resentment have developed over discharges than almost anything in the army. Some of this is unavoidable. Some, on the other hand, seems due to army inefficiency, including the amount of discretion allowed individual officers and units.

For instance, the air forces set up a separate demobilization program in some areas, and at Las Vegas, Nev., began releasing young officers by the hundreds. There was such a surplus of second lieutenants that those with only 42 points were let out. First lieutenants with only 58 points were discharged, and captains with only 70 points were permitted to leave the service.

Meanwhile enlisted men who still need 85 points to get out are burning up.

Part of the irregularity in administering the point system results from the fact that each commanding officer has the right to reject a man's application for discharge—no matter how many points he has — by declaring him "essential." Obviously certain key technical men fall into the category and cannot be spared. Also it is much more practical to use trained veterans than to break in new men. However, there is increasing resentment from battle-scarred veterans with points galore, some of whom feel they are kept in the service because of some gripe or prejudice on the part of commanding officers.

—TOO MANY GENERALS—

An unfortunate attitude also is growing among enlisted men that the generals don't want the army scaled down. There are 1,600 generals in the army today, many of them lieutenant colonels or even captains before the war. And enlisted men are wondering whether "essential" and "military necessity" aren't sometimes convenient excuses for keeping army manpower padded. For, if the army is cut too sharply, a large number of general officers will be retired. This view does not make for morale, but unfortunately it exists among enlisted men.

One thing which G. I.'s can't understand is why the army, when fighting a two-front war, was willing to release a man over 38 if he had a war job; whereas today, with only a one-front war, the army has upped the age limit to 40.

Another thing the army can't adequately explain is why they've established so few separation centers to handle discharges, and why one of them, Camp Dix, N. J., is so poorly run that it was recently subjected to a complete investigation by the inspector general's office.

One group especially restless are the limited service men—men with physical infirmities, who were drafted for non-combat service and hence can never go abroad to roll up discharge points. They are at the bottom of the discharge barrel and probably can't get out until the end of the war.

Obviously, these are complex problems and extremely difficult for the army to solve. Actually, though they aren't announcing it, army personnel experts are working on a new system, but it's not likely to hatch until the end of the summer or fall. Meanwhile the discharge SNAFU continues.

NOTE—One thing that especially gripes enlisted men is that, while they aren't supposed to write to their congressmen, the brass hats troop up to Capitol Hill in droves and even maintain a special lobbying agency in congress to convince the legislators of their own efficiency.

An Illinois conductor was only slightly injured when struck by lightning in his street car. A non-conductor.

We don't need an eitquet book to know that one thing in good taste right now is watermelon.

A cut in rates for long-distance phone calls covering more than 790 miles has been announced. And servicemen should have a first crack at it!

Hobbies Help Pep Up Personalities

Best antidote to that not uncommon feeling that you're growing stale or that your personality is closing in instead of sprouting out, is a new interest—one that takes you into unfamiliar surroundings or plunges you into unusual activities.

If you feel that way, hie away to some place new on your vacation or next holiday. If you stay at home—a decision Uncle Sam will approve—look for a hobby. There are plenty of books that will guide you in your choice.

A stay-at-home acquaintance of mine found her hobby in language study, and the fun she's had from mastering a new tongue is only half of it. Her interest in the language has blazed a trail into amusing restaurants, foreign language theaters and homes. It's opened up a new world, made her new friends, given her a flock of new interests and a winning personality.

Flush Out Nails For Protection

Because colored polish makes dirt caught up by fingernails almost invisible, many women fail to flush out the soil as often as they should.

What brings this up is a manicurist's remark that she's always shocked at what polish remover brings to view on the nails of fastidious customers.

Colonies of bacteria in staggering numbers thrive in fingernail dirt. We say this not to frighten you, but in order to open your eyes to the fact that the more germs there are, the greater is the risk of harboring enemies.

The frequent contact between fingers and food and fingers and mouth makes it all the more important that nails be kept as aseptically clean as soap, water and a scrub brush will make them. A safe routine is to scrub under nails every time you wash your hands.

New Device Aids Clear Hearing

Let's talk about good hearing. After 40, ears, like eyes, begin to dim. Sometimes much younger women, described as "bundles of nerves," are susceptible to conditions which bring about impairment of hearing.

Thanks to scientific advances, there is no need today to suffer an auditory handicap, which too often becomes a personality handicap and causes a sensitive person to deny herself normal social pleasures and human relationships.

Science's solution to the problem is a mechanical hearing aid. One of these is a conduction type of instrument with a receiver that can be concealed by a tress of hair. Newest improvement in this is a tone-control device, which shuts out the boom of background sounds, thus making it possible for the hearing aid to be adjusted so that you can distinguish sounds both near and far.

Kenneth L. Dixon

BY KENNETH L. DIXON

Occupied Germany (AP)—There is a constantly recurring rumor these days that the nonfraternization ban soon will be lifted.

Nobody can pin it down and all available officials disclaim any "information through channels" about it—but even they admit they have heard it.

Dixon

The most popular date picked by the rumor experts for the lifting of the ban is during or shortly after the big three meeting.

* * *

Discussing that rumor in a military office the other day, a sergeant was asked by a German office worker why the ban should be lifted if high American officials thought it was necessary in the first place.

"Perhaps because a majority of the American people and soldiers are not in favor of it and don't think it will help any in preventing another war," said the sergeant tentatively.

"Do you mean," asked the German, "that if the people don't want it they can make the leaders change it?"

"That," said the sergeant, grabbing an opportunity for a little re-education, "is right. That is the idea of a Democracy."

* * *

Along the same line was the experience of a captain in a nearby office who heard two German girl secretaries wondering why America "came clear over here to fight Germany."

He undertook to tell them and in the ensuing discussion they brought up all the old propaganda gags that Goebbels and company fed the world for so long. Getting gradually more and more angry, he still failed to see the futility of the argument until he started using the term "a free country" to drive home some point or other.

"A free country?" repeated one of the girls in obvious puzzlement. "free—vass is dot."

"Free—what is that!" exploded the officer in mimicry. "That tells the whole story."

Perhaps the story should end there but it doesn't. Calling for an interpreter, the officer discovered why the girls had been unable to understand what he meant.

There is no German word which expresses what Americans mean when they refer to a free country and a free people. The Germans have the word "free" all right, but it merely means you do not have to pay for something.

* * *

Returning to nonfraternization momentarily — this story has brought howls of hilarity from all over occupied Germany. It concerns the court martial of a soldier for fraternization.

To clinch its case the prosecution brought in the German woman allegedly involved and her small son. The child was led into the court room filled with military personnel including the accused and asked if an American soldier had been visiting his mother.

The boy, obviously excited, answered in the affirmative. He then was asked to point out that soldier if he was in the room. His eyes swept the dimly lighted court room.

"Das ist der mann," the child said pointing directly at the president of the court.

Probably it ruins the story, but it must be added that the embarrassed officer insisted on proving a satisfactory alibi.

Soldier Writes Interesting Letter

St. Nicholas, Mich.—Staff Sergeant Rene Boullion who was here on furlough in February and who returned to Germany, wrote a letter which will be of interest to his many friends. Sgt. Boullion veteran of six campaigns, is now in Dachau, Germany. Parts taken from his letter reads as follows:

"Since my furlough I was in battle from April 20th till V-E Day, which gave me my sixth battle star. Our last shots were fired in Munich and the last day of battle was rough. We lost a number of men, and I experienced my closest shave there myself. I was in a house when I heard an artillery shell coming in. I fell flat on the floor. The sharpnel came through the walls—one piece skinned my hand. I was protecting my face with my hands. My injury wasn't bad enough to require doctors care. In fact, you can hardly see it anymore.

A few days ago a general order came to me, stating I've been awarded the Bronze Star Medal (that will give me a total of 115 points) I expect to be called any day to go down to a presentation where I'll receive the medal.

"You've probably heard, or read about the city of Dachau where I am now. The Germans had a large concentration camp here. Talk about some awful sights we have seen— there were fifteen carloads of bodies here when we took the city, and those who weren't dead were either sick or starved. Women and children were just skin and bones—it made a person sick to see these horrible things. We found some bodies in the crematory that hadn't been burned yet—large furnaces where they burned them by the truckloads.

Our outfit is now guarding and feeding the people in this camp. They have to stay till the sickness and disease can be checked. A lot of these people are Russians and some of every nationality.

I could write a book on this subject but this will hold you for a while.

"I made a little trip a week or so ago, to be exact it was June 4—four years from the day I was inducted into the army. The mailman, another Sergeant, and myself took off one morning on a sight seeing tour. We went to the Austrian border, across Austria, and into Italy, and down to the Brenner Pass. It was a wonderful day, and we had taken our lunch. We climbed up the Alp mountain and visited Hitler's home at Berchesgaden. It is bombed of course, but it was a swell mansion at one time.

"I enjoyed every bit of the trip and we made the 500 mile trip in 12 hours. We wanted to come back by way of Switzerland but the gates are closed to all Allied personnel. I was at the Swiss border last year but couldn't get in.

"I received a letter from George Depuydt a week or so ago. He is stationed about forty miles from here so I intend to take a run up there to visit him this week, if possible.

"Hope this finds you all well, and regards to all.

"I can hardly wait for the trip that will take me back to the States."

Sgt. Boullion is married and his wife and 19 month old daughter, Virginia Lee reside in Holland, Mich., with Mrs. Boullion's parents.

Miss Doris Norden Weds Onni Johnson

Rock—At an attractive wedding which took place June 23, Miss Doris Norden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norden of Rock, became the bride of Onni Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Ranta of Rock. Rev. Clifford Peterson performed the ceremony, which took place at the First Lutheran church of Gladstone.

The bride wore a long gown of white crepe Romaine, trimmed with lace. Her finger-tip veil was fastened in a crown of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Her only jewelry was a gold locket.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Roy Ackerman, sister of the bride, who wore a gown of pink taffeta and net. Another sister of the bride, Miss Irma Norden, was the bridesmaid. She wore a gown of blue chiffon. Both attendants carried mixed bouquets. Cpl. Lee Norden, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Mrs. Norden, mother of the bride, wore a dress of orchid crepe, with white accessories. Mrs. Ranta, mother of the bridegroom, chose a black printed gown, with green accessories.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper for 25 guests was served at the home of the bride. The table was attractively decorated with white flowers, centered by a three-tiered wedding cake. The couple left later for a trip to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, the bride choosing for her travelling costume, a suit of black and white check, with white accessories.

The couple will make their home in Rock. The bride is a graduate of the Rock high school, and has been employed at the Rock post office. The bridegroom is a graduate of Highland Park high school, Detroit, and is employed by the Rock Co-op company.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Rena Olson, Quinnesec, and Cpl. Lee Norden, Kingman, Ariz.

In Increase In Polio Past Week

Washington — As if to confirm assurances by health authorities that infantile paralysis gives no signs yet of becoming epidemic this season, the total number of cases throughout the nation remained practically stationary during the week ending July 7.

The number reported for that week to the U. S. Public Health Service here was 154. The total for the previous week was 155. For the first week in July, 1944, the total was 288.

Texas, where the greatest concentration of cases so far has occurred, reported 21 cases the week of July 7, compared to 54 the previous week. Tennessee, New York and California reported some increases.

Chet Miller, Noted Auto Racer, Gladstone Visitor

Chet Miller of auto racing fame was a Gladstone visitor several days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were guests of Trooper and Mrs. Mason Meyer, 1314 Michigan avenue. Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. Miller are sisters.

Miller has competed in the 500-mile auto classic at Indianapolis since 1928 and has been one of the game's most consistent performers and keenest competitors.

Although Lady Luck has never been sufficiently kind to allow him to win the event, he has finished the race in eight of the times he qualified. Once he came in third, twice in fifth place, twice in sixth place and once in tenth.

Twice he led the event in late stages and apparently had the race in the bag only to have something happen. On one of these occasions he was out in front with only five laps to go on the 2½-mile brick oval when his racer ran out of gasoline. It was not a case of trying to stretch the fuel to avoid another pit stop, the valve on the reserve gas tank which held sufficient fuel for 7½ laps failed to function.

Shaw's Partner

Two other times he finished the race as relief driver for some other qualifier, after his machine had broken down. On one of these occasions the driver who tired and was unable to continue was "Wild Bill" Cummings.

For some years now Miller has been driving for Mike Boyle, Chicago union official. He has been the teammate of Wilbur Shaw, who also drives for Boyle. Miller drives a Boyle Special while Shaw's racer is an Italian Maseratti.

So confident are many of those who make auto racing a hobby that the Memorial Day race will be resumed in 1946 that they are already building new racing machanes or rebuilding old.

Miller's auto is among those being rebuilt and the 8-cylinder engine which powered the machine in the last race is being replaced by one of 4 cylinders.

Motors are practically hand built by expert auto mechanics who make the building of racing jobs a life work. They are lubricated by castor oil because of its viscosity and ability to withstand high temperatures. All burn special fuel, some a mixture of benzol, aviation gas and tetraethyl of lead, others alcohol. Proportions used in the special fuels are closely guarded secrets.

Pit Crews Help

A good pit crew can be of major assistance in the winning of a race, Miller asserted, telling how by secret signal they keep the drivers of their team advised as to the position of other contestants and keep them out of traffic jams when the cars they attend are to make a pit stop.

Pit speed is so amazing as to be almost unbelieveable, but a good pit crew can make a wheel and tire change in 9 seconds and can make both the wheel change and refuel the auto with 50 to 60 gallons of fuel in a matter of approximately a minute.

Special racing tires with smooth tread and little if any rubber on the side wall are used on the cars in the 500-mile event. When the race drivers start out they head for oil spots on the track to get their tires well oil-soaked for then they slide well on the turns and last longer. A white strip of rubber which lays underneath the smooth tread warns drivers when they should head pitward for a change of tires. As the outer rubber wears down a thin white line appears, the driver being able to watch all four tires, and when it reaches an inch or so in width, the time has come to get in the pit, or else.

Set Pike's Peak Record

While best known for his driving on the Indianapolis track, Miller has other records to his credit, notably the Pike's Peak stock car record which he set back in 1936.

Mild-mannered and soft-spoken, Miller would never be taken for one who has his record of daredevil exploits at the wheel of racing machines.

A valuable watch which Miller wears on his left wrist and which few have seen probably tells the story of the man's character. It is a sportsmanship trophy awarded Miller for putting his auto over the wall during a race to avoid striking Floyd Roberts who was on his hands and knees on the track after being thrown out of his car during a crash. Roberts died of his injuries, Miller learned after he regained consciousness in a hospital.

ASSIGNMENT ENDED

Iron Mountain— Completing their assignment at the Ford airport, Capt. Herman C. LaMar, in charge of Ford glider pickup operations here since Monday, June 18 and his group of the Troop Carrier Command, will leave here this week, for other duties, after successfully performing a job which has proved, conclusively, that the airport is adequate for pickup and delivery of gliders by tow-ship.

Since June 18, the TCC has carried four gliders daily, when weather permitted, from the Ford airport to Milwaukee, for relay to a glider-training base. Two C-47 tow-ships were used in the operation, and thousands of persons have witnessed the demonstration, either during special programs or in the daily operation. The number of gliders taken out was not disclosed.

RETURNS FROM GERMANY

Iron Mountain — Recovering most of the 40 pounds he lost during nine months' imprisonment in Stalag Luft I, at Barth, northern Germany, Lieut. Rolland Olson of the Army Air Forces, has rejoined his wife, the former Lucille Gobel, at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gobel, in Kingsford.

The lieutenant arrived in the States on June 22; at Fort Snelling Minn., on June 28 and in Kingsford on July 9. He had wired and written his wife some time ago, of his release by the Russians on last May 2. Since then he had moved, by devious routes, to London, England, to await transportation home.

Lieut. Olson, former driver for the Greyhound Bus Lines, enlisted on Sept. 10, 1942 and was commissioned at an advanced Air Corps school at Fredrick, Oklahoma. He was sent overseas on July 10, 1944 and just 15 days later, on his third mission over Germany, was shot down and captured by Hitler's dreaded SS troops and young soldiers of the Hitler Youth movement.

SELECT LION COMMITTEES

Skellenger Announces Aides; Many Will Attend Roundup

Wm. S. Skellenger, president of the Gladstone Lions club, made committee appointments for 1945-46 at a regular meeting of the club Thursday night at the yacht club.

Ralph Sheehan, international director, was present at the meeting and in addition to describing duties of the various officers to the newly installed staff, inducted Gordon Smith into the club.

Twenty-two of the Gladstone members have indicated their intention of attending the annual Upper Peninsula Roundup of Lions to be held at the Dutch Mill on Wednesday, July 18.

Guests at the meeting were Director Sheehan, Servicemen Tom Carmody, Joseph Rabitoy, Bob Sohn, Bernard Olson and William Ludick, and Ted Feldt of Painted Post, N. Y., and Robert Leonard of Gladstone.

Social

Wheaton-Warner

Miss Betty Wheaton of Milwaukee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Wheaton, 807 Delta avenue, Gladstone, became the bride of Charles Henry Warner of Milwaukee, at a ceremony performed by the Rev. J. Henry Gienapp in the parsonage of the Trinity Evangelical church of Milwaukee on Tuesday, July 3, at 4 p. m.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little of Milwaukee.

For her wedding, the bride wore a powder blue suit with white accessories and her corsage consisted of yellow talisman roses, snapdragons and mignonette.

The matron of honor was attired in a saddle brown suit with maize accessories and her corsage was of vermillion roses and daisies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wheaton wore an aqua blue ensemble with brown accessories, and her corsage consisted of dusty rose talisman roses and mignonette.

A wedding dinner, with places for seven, was served at the Schroeder Hotel.

In the evening a reception for 150 guests was held at the Odd Fellows hall with a five piece orchestra furnishing the music for dancing. Lunch was served during the evening. The serving table was centered with a wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped by the traditional miniature bride and groom. White turtle doves decorated the base of the cake.

Those attending the reception from out-of-town were Dorothy Coffel, Sp. (X) 3/C, of Glenview Naval Air Base, formerly Dorothy Wheaton of Gladstone, sister of the bride, Mrs. Jens Wheaton, mother of the bride and the Misses Madelyn Picard, Shirley LaFond, Nathalie Hillewaert, Irene Legault, Mary Lou Thivierge, Theresa Quinn and Joan Van Damme of Gladstone.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will make their home in Milwaukee.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere and heartfelt gratitude for all of the many kindnesses, courtesies and comforting expressions of sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement.

Hitler Was Insane And Immoral, Doctor Claims

By CURT RIESS

Berlin, July 12—Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, world famous physician who was often reputed to be Hitler's doctor, told me in an exclusive interview that he had no doubt that "Hitler was pathological to insanity." He insisted he had never been Hitler's doctor.

"Hitler had no morals, no knowledge of good or bad, right or wrong," Dr. Sauerbruch told me. "On the other hand he had a flair for people and knew with an almost unfailing instinct what they would do for him. He also had a strong hypotnotic influence. But Goebbels was infinitely more intelligent and was the man who really guided the leader whom he pretended to follow."

In Dr. Sauerbruch's opinion, the Nazis were nothing but a bunch of crazy people, sick people and criminals. He violently disapproved of the so-called "mercy-killings" and said he hopes that all Nazi doctors mixed up with the killing of the old or insane—not to mention the minority victims of Nazi bestiality—will be speedily hanged.

The 70-year-old doctor emphasized that he was neither a Nazi nor Hitler's personal physician. Saying that "no physician should ever mix in politics," he explained the fact that he had accepted the title of "Staatsrat" (a Nazi-coined title) only upon guarantees by Goering that his personal and political liberty would not be infringed. He made it explicitly clear at the time, he told me, that he would not join the Nazi party.

While it is obvious that today no man's denial of Nazi activity can be taken at face value, Dr. Sauerbruch's statement is given certain credence by the fact that the Russians, on Marshal Zhukov's personal insistence, placed him at the head of the Berlin Health Service in the new city regime installed by the Russians.

"I didn't seek the job," the doctor said. "I'm terribly overburdened already." This is undoubtedly true since he is one of Germany's most famous physicians. Despite his 70 years he is still spry and lean, with an extraordinarily intelligent face. He took on the job (in addition to the fact that the Russians ordered him to) because "I wanted to help my fellow Germans who needed doctors more than ever." He went on to explain that during and after the battle of Berlin there was an indescribable medical mixup. Most of the important Nazi physicians, including the fuehrer of doctors, fled.

Nazis Destroyed Statistics

Dr. Sauerbruch told me that he hasn't any idea as to the extent of German losses, since the Nazis destroyed all statistics. He believed that casualties were higher than any estimates he had seen. "During the last 10 days of the Berlin battle," he said, "I alone treated 2743 wounded."

In discussing the general state of health in Germany today, Dr. Sauerbruch turned very serious. "Look at them in the streets today," he said. "They have been underfed for six years." He also said that the hospitals themselves were lacking many of the essential medical supplies. His own Berlin hospital hasn't had any bandages for more than a week and has almost no medical alcohol left.

"There is still grave danger of epidemics in Berlin," he said in conclusion. "Imagine how many dead bodies there must be slowly decaying, buried under the ruins of the city. Thank God for the rain of the last few days of the battle for Berlin. It did away with the flies who might have started epidemics on an unheard of scale. But the danger isn't passed yet.

"What will happen this winter is anyone's guess."

SAILS UP TAHQUAMENON

Whitefish Point—Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City, enroute to Munising for lake trout trolling, made a trip up the Tahquamenon river here recently and expressed amazement and delight at the scenery. It was his first trip up the river.

He suggested that a small boat harbor would be advisable at the mouth of the river, together with dredging to permit small craft to navigate this famous stream of Hiawatha as far as the picturesque lower falls. He was accompanied up the river by Tom Brown.

A small boat harbor is proposed at Shelldrake and another at Whitefish Point where at the moment engineers are making final soundings. Whitefish Point small harbor is regarded as of prime importance since the Coast Guard station there is one of the most important on the Great Lakes.

MAY OPPOSE HOOK

Marquette — Home on vacation from Detroit, where he is employed on an Army air force job, Andrew Asikainen, Gwinn, who, as an opponent of Congressman Frank E. Hook for the Democratic nomination in the last primary campaign, finished second in a three - way contest, intimates he may go after Hook's hide again next year.

Asked whether he intended to be a candidate, Asikainen said yesterday: "It's a little too early to make a definite decision. However, I am interested in good, clean government and am being urged by friends to again seek the office, inasmuch as they feel that the Democratic party, or rather its Congressfan and state senator from this district, seem to be more interested in and obligated to the CIO than they are to their constituents. If these gentlemen think the CIO was solely responsible for their winning in the last election, they have another guess coming.

BOY'S FOOT AMPUTATED

Iron Mountain—Conrad Zeman, five-year-old son of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Charles J. Zeman, Chicago, underwent the amputation of his left foot at the General hospital on Tuesday after an accident occurring on the Neil Smith farm, at Randville, where the Zemans—parents and three children — are visiting.

The boy, according to the account, was standing behind a large horse-drawn hay-mower, in the driveway of the Smith farm. The driver had left on a brief errand, when the horses suddenly backed up a few feet. The blade of the mower caught the youngster in the foot ,inflicting a deep wound. He was rushed to the General hospital, where Dr. W. H. Alexander performed the operation.

TRUCK DRIVER RECOVERING

Checkup Of Accident Reveals Narrow Escape

Fred Christensen, injured Wednesday evening, when the logging truck belonging to the Michigan Dimension company which he was driving, collided with freight cars of the M. & L. S. Railway, is recovering at his home. He sustanied several gashes about one of his knees and wrenched a shoulder.

A checkup of Christensen's predicament reveals that his was a very close call because the impact of the collision was so great that the coupling pin connecting the fore part of the truck with the trailer was jarred completely out of place and the trailer crashed against the truck pinning the vehicle between the trailer and the freight car.

The truck, it appears, from a reconstruction of the case, crashed into the string of cars being shunted in the direction of the harbor. The vehicle hit the sill step of the leading car, a flat car and raked the car along its entire length.

Christensen, according to a report of parties interviewing him, states that he isn't clear as to how the accident happened. He was on his way to his home from the Dimension company when the accident happened.

Industrial Comeback Of Greensand Seen

New Brunswick, N. J.—Use as a water softener of New Jersey marl or green-sand, formerly important as a fertilizer, has inspired a program of rehabilitation and expansion for New Jersey's mineral industry which has dwindled in output, income and employment in recent years. A new bureau of mineral research at Rutgers University, headed by Dr. Alfred K. Snelgrove, formerly of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, will conduct the study.

Before he was ten years old, the 15th century Italian painter Pietro Perugini had begun his life work, studying under a master.

DEATH CLAIMS OLD RESIDENT

Louis Winandy, 82, Dies Friday At Home Of Daughter

Louis Winandy, 82, retired paper mill employe, died early Friday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Mero, 612 Oak street, after an illness of several years.

He was born in Rodanz, Luxembourg Feb. 16, 1863 and came to the United States 62 years ago. A year later he returned to Luxembourg, but remained there only a few months before returning to the United States to make his home. He settled at Manistique and has resided here continuously since. Mr. Winandy was married 60 years ago to Mary Plum, who died several years ago.

He was engaged in farming for a time after his arrival here, but was an employe of the local paper company most of his years of residence here.

The body was prepared for burial at the Kefauver and Jackson funeral home, and will remain there until this evening when it will be returned to the Mero residence. Funeral services will be held at the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Fr. B. J. P. Schevers officiating, and interment will be in Fairview cemetery.

He is survived by three sons, Henry, Detroit; Peter, Oakland, Calif., and Louis, of Manistique; and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Gatshall, Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. George Mero, Manistique. Two grandchildren also survive.

Social

Pre-Nuptial Shower

Mrs. Jasper Laurion and Mrs. William Barker were co-hostesses at a pre-nuptial shower for Lorrain M. Barker Thursday evening at the K. of C. hall.

Cards and games were the diversions of the evening with prizes for five hundred going to Mrs. Hilda Cutler, high, Mrs. Delia Bodette, second, and Mrs. Henry Gauthier, low. In bridge Mrs. Leon Duquette received high, Mrs. George R. Matthew, second, and Mrs. Clarence McNamara, low. In other games Vera Hyland and Sis Olesak received the awards.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening to the 95 guests attending. Miss Barker was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Miss Barker will become the bride of John Ozanich of Detroit, on Monday, July 16, at St. Francis de Sales church.

Lauritz Drevdahl Is Boys' Counselor At University Camp

Lauritz Drevdahl, principal of Manistique junior high school, is serving as counselor at the Fresh Air Camp of the University of Michigan. The camp, situated on Patterson Lake, was opened July 2 and is run for the benefit of boys sent by social agencies, community centers and schools in southeastern Michigan.

In addition to his duties there, Mr. Drevdahl is attending the summer session at the university.

Buy An Extra Quart Of Milk Each Day—
Recently members of a certain women's study club were asked to submit in writing their suggestion for some simple way to improve the average family diet. Selected as the best suggestion submitted was that of a practical housewife who wrote: "Buy an extra quart of milk a day."
One cannot improve upon the simple answer to this most perplexing of problems. Milk is a perfect food and it can be served in countless ways.

Tigers Taken, 5-6, By Red Sox; Yanks Fall 16-4; Cubs Win No. 12

FINE JOB DONE BY BOO FERRISS

Overmire Touched For 4 Runs In Third To Sew Up Game

Boston, July 13. (AP)—Freshman righthander Dave (Boo) Ferriss turned in one of his best major league pitching performances to chalk up his 15th win today as his Boston Red Sox gained their eighth triumph in 12 starts against the top-place Detroit Tigers by a 5-1 margin.

While becoming the majors' first hurler to hit the 15-mark this season, Ferriss moved his forces into a third-place tie with the New York Yankees. He held the Tigers to seven scattered hits while striking out five and not giving a single base on balls.

Little Eddie Lake gave Ferriss a flying start by homering in the first inning and the Sockers wrapped up the game in the third by blasting starter Frank Overmire for four runs with five hits, a pass and a long fly.

Before Zeb Eaton, who held the Sockers to two hits during the last five innings, took over for Overmire, the Tigers gained their singleton on Eddie Mayo's two-bagger and Roy Cullenbine's single.

Score by innings:

Detroit	000 100 000—1 7 0
Boston	104 000 00x—5 9 0

Overmire, Eaton and Swift; Ferriss and Garbark.

DOUBLE BREAKS TIE

Philadelphia, July 13 (AP)—Mike Kreevich's double in the 11th inning broke up a 2-2 deadlock and gave the St. Louis Browns a 4-2 victory tonight over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The two-base hit brought Vern Stephens home and a single by Frank Mancusco sent Kreevich over the plate with one more run than necessary.

The A's, who defeated the Browns in a twin bill here yesterday, took a 1-0 lead in the third when Buddy Rosar's double scored Hal Peck. St. Louis went ahead 2-1 in the sixth and Philadelphia tied up in the seventh.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	000 002 000 02—4 12 2
Philadel'ia	001 000 100 00—2 12 2

Potte and Mancuso; Gerkin and Rosar.

SENATORS CLOSE IN

Washington, July 13 (AP)—George Case's single in the ninth inning scoring Al Evans, gave Washington a 3-2 victory over Chicago here tonight, to put the Senators closer to league-leading Detroit.

The Senators are now only two and a half games behind the leaders.

Score by innings:

Chicago	200 000 000—2 5 0
Washington	000 110 001—3 12 0

Lopat and Tresh; Haefner and Evans.

Fast Dark Horses With Byron Nelson In PGA Golf Semis

BY HAROLD HARRISON

Dayton, O., July 13 (AP)—Golf's No. 1 man, a reformed baseball player, and two of the fastest dark horses you ever saw today roared into the semi-finals of the 27th National Professional golf tournament.

The man of the hour of course still was Byron Nelson, the Texan who now plays out of Toledo, O. He was six under par to whip grey-haired Denny Shute of Akron, O., 3 and 2, and thus write another amazing chapter in one of the most brilliant and yet heartbreaking stories of the P.G.A.

Nelson now has been a semi-finalist or better in the last six P.G.A. affairs yet he has only one pro title to his credit.

Sam Byrd of Redford, Mich., a drawling southerner who once played for the New York Yankees but who would rather talk football than either baseball or golf, gave a 7 and 6 beating to Vic Ghezzi of Atlantic City, N. J. Ghezzi was one of two ex-champions who bowed out today. The other was Shute and that left only Nelson to try for a repeat act.

The dark horses were Clarence Doser of Hartsdale, N. Y., and Claude Harmon of Grosse Point Wood, Mich.

Doser was one under par as he slipped past Ky Laffoon of Miami, Okla., 2 and 1.

Harmon, playing with a split finger, wheeled in with a four under par performance to whip Ralph Hutchison of Bethlehem, Pa., 4 and 3.

Tomorrow, Doser will be paired against Byrd and Nelson will meet Harmon.

Tomorrow's winners will clash Sunday in the 36-hole championship match.

SOFTBALL

ANOTHER VICTORY

Dagenais Grocery won their twelfth league game of the year Thursday night at No. 2 diamond as they defeated St. Anne C. Y. O., 15 to 2. The early part of the game was close but the Grocer batting power began to tell in the late stages as they scored twelve runs in two big innings. Bertrand and Dufour got two hits in four appearances to lead the hitting for the winners. Glenn La Chappelle of St. Anne C.Y.O. collected two hits in three appearances and played a fine defensive game at short field.

St. Anne C.Y.O.	001 000 1— 2 4 3
Dagenais	300 480 x—15 14 2

Dufresne and Besson. Weber and Hanson.

SWEDISH FLASH WINS

Stockholm, July 13 (AP) — Arne Andersson, the crack Swedish middle distance runner, won the 1,500 meter run in the excellent time of three minutes and 45 seconds during an international match between Sweden and Denmark in the Stockholm stadium tonight.

SEEREY SLAMS THREE HOMERS

Slaughter Is Worst One Of Year For New York Club

New York, July 13 (AP) — Pat Seerey, portly rightfielder of the Cleveland Indians, hit three homers into the left field pavilion, and slammed a triple besides, for 15 total bases and eight runs batted in as the Tribe scalped the New York Yankees 16-4 today before a ladies day crowd of 30,283, including 6,932 paying patrons.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his wife and their two sons, sat through the whole slaughter, the Yank's worst beating of the year.

It was Gromek's 10th win of the year, his fourth straight against the Yankees, against five losses. He yielded eight hits, four of them, including Hershel Martin's homer, coming in the ninth inning for three runs.

Pat's third homer was off Roser in the seventh with two on. The last American leaguer to hit three round trippers in a game was Rudy York of Detroit, Sept. 1, 1941.

Cleveland	302 700 301—16 17 1
New York	010 000 003— 4 8 3

Gromek and Hayes, McDonnell; Donald, Dubiel, Roser and Garbark.

BY JACK HARD

New York, July 13 (AP) — Pat Seerey wiped the sweat off his round face, seated his roly-poly body astride a club house bench and allowed as how he was "just plain lucky, that's all" when he hit three home runs today for Cleveland against the New York Yankees.

Seerey was the big reason for the lopsided 16-4 count, the worst beating the Tribe has given the Yankees in years, for he also hit a triple for 15 total bases and drove home eight of the runs.

Even Manager Lou Boudreau couldn't remember when Cleveland ran up that kind of a score in the Yankee stadium. He's sure it hasn't happened since he joined the Indians.

"It sure was a pleasure watching somebody else get their brains knocked out in this park," grinned the Cleveland skipper, whose club never has found the house-that-Ruth-built any happy hunting ground.

"Maybe we're going to get started," hoped Lou. "Now that we've started hitting we've won nine of our last 12. Seven and a half games out of first place is a long hop but we're not giving up. Say, that Seerey really hit that ball didn't he?"

Lou Gross Picks Joyce As Champ Of Lightweights

By TED MEIER
Pinch Hitting for Whitney Martin

New York, July 13 (AP)—Put down Lou Gross and Willie Joyce as one of the best trainer-fighter combinations in boxing.

Prior to the Joyce Bobby Ruffin scrap at Madison Square Garden tonight, Lou and Willie were together in 62 amateur and professional bouts. They won 61 and lost only one for a remarkable percentage of .984.

The bout on the wrong side was a 12-round split decision Willie dropped to the NBA Lightweight Champion Ike Williams, a lad, Willie has whipped three times in four meetings.

Native Chicagoan

After beating Williams for the third time, Joyce went to California where he fought Chalky Wright without the benefit of Lou's counsel. Wright won. Charley Schuster, Joyce's manager, wasted no time putting in a hurry-up telephone call to Gross in Philadelphia to catch the next train out. Lou had stayed in the East because of his wife's illness.

Lou, 39 tomorrow, is a native Chicagoan and says "I was born into the racket." He was a fighter himself for a time, then switched to the managing and training end. He gives Jack Hurley of Chicago credit for teaching him many of the quirks of the sport.

He became associated with Joyce in the amateurs nine years ago. They separated when Lou was inducted into the army two years ago. He was honorably discharged last fall and the very next day was back with Joyce.

Lou attributes his success with Joyce to keeping a close watch on the Gary, Ind., boy's weight. He prides himself on always having Willie weigh 136 pounds, give or take half a pound, on the day of a fight.

"Anytime a trainer can bring a fighter in at a certain weight every time," declared a Jacobs Beach contemporary, "you know he's not lucky. He knows what he's doing."

"I work my fighter according to weight," explained Lou. "Willie's best fighting weight is 136. Then he's fast. Around 138 or 139 he slows down.

"Now, take this Ruffin fight. After Willie beat Dave Freeman in Philly I let him take a 10-day vacation in Atlantic City. When he reported back to the gym he was up around 142. He trimmed off three pounds over a week because I like to take it off gradually and like to keep him around 138-139 until two days before a fight.

"I let him eat anything he wants until a week before a fight, then watch his diet. I check his weight twice a day, so I know just where I am. Thursday he finished work at 137½, giving me a chance to dry him out and bring him in at 136. I'm with him all day the day of the fight to see that he doesn't drink or eat anything out of the way. Then, in the ring, I pace him from the corner.

"Willie is a very willing worker. He knows if he didn't follow orders he wouldn't be where he is now. You can put this down as a prediction: He's the coming lightweight champion if he is given a chance."

Softball Leaders To Meet Monday; Plan Night Game

The Escanaba Softball Association will hold an important meeting Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the City Hall. All board of control members, officers, and managers are urged to attend.

Plans for the first game on the new lighted field will be discussed and an All-Star National league team will be chosen for the opening tilt.

Managers are asked to bring their players lists up to date and to pay the umpire fee for the second half which begins on July 23.

Golf Movies Will Be Shown Tuesday

Two movie films, showing Patty Berg and Sam Snead in action, will be shown at the Escanaba Golf club Tuesday night, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Women members are invited to attend the picture program, which is being presented as a special feature of the men's twilight league series.

Cataleptic attacks may last from a few minutes to several days.

12. Sunfish (Eupomolis gibbosus).
13. Bluegills (Lepomis pallidus).

(Additional classes will be added if interest warrants.)

RULES

1. The contest is open to everybody, men, women and children. Contest opens with the legal fishing season and closes on Labor Day. Envelopes containing entries must bear a postmark not later than September 3, 1945, to be eligible.

2. All fish entered in the contest must be caught in public waters of Upper Michigan during the open season in the respective fish class.

3. Contest is limited to fish taken with hook and line. Any legal lure may be used. Lake trout must be caught on a rod or line freely held in the hand and not attached to a boat.

4. All information asked for on the entry blank should be supplied. Failure to give length and girth will disqualify entries. Fish must be weighed on tested scales and measured with a steel tape measure, the length taken from the end of the lower jaw with the mouth closed to the tip of the tail, and the greatest girth of the fish taken. Weight may be given dressed or in the round, or both.

5. In the wall-eyed pike and black bass classes a photograph is desirable to be sure of identity of the species.

6. In the event of two or more fish weighing and measuring exactly the same, identical trophies will be awarded. Greatest measurements will decide the winner when weights are approximately equal.

7. Accompany your entry with a photograph of yourself or the fish or both together with a brief story of how, where and when the fish was caught. A photograph is not essential to win an award, but it is desirable.

8. The entry blank printed above, or an exact copy must be used. It must be signed by the person catching the fish and by two witnesses who examined the fish and verified its weight and measurements. The contestant agrees, if requested to do so by the judges, to furnish an affidavit attesting to the truth of all statements made in the entry.

9. Contestants may make as many entries in all classes as they wish.

PRIZE AWARDS

In each of the classes the angler entering the fish which is adjudged to be the largest in its class will receive a trophy in recognition of his or her accomplishment.

Additional blanks may be had free of charge by addressing Outdoors Editor, Escanaba Daily Press, Escanaba, Michigan.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Here's a baseball teaser for you. The bases are loaded with one out. The batter lifts a fly ball to deep right field, which the fielder bags for the second out. The runner on third holds the sack until the ball is caught, then streaks for home. The runner on second, however, fails to hold his base but ambles for third and to get back to second in time to beat the throw from the rightfielder. It is the third out, but the runner on third crosses the plate ahead of the third out at second base. Does the run count? This happened in a game at Ogden, Utah recently and the umpire ruled that the run did not count, even though the runner had crossed the plate before the third out was registered at second base.

• • •

The umpire was wrong. This is the only double play situation in baseball that retires the side and still permits the run to score. The rule: "One run shall be scored every time a base-runner, after having legally touched the first three bases, should legally touch the home base before three men are put out; provided, however that if he reach home on or during a play in which the third man be forced out or be put out before reaching first base, a run shall not count; also, if third out is made by preceding runner failing to touch a base, a run shall not count." In the situation listed above, the third out was not a "force out."

• • •

An alert baseball or softball player is always mindful of the proper play to make if the ball comes his way. In a local softball game the other night, there were runners on first and second, and two men out. The batter rapped a ground ball to the shortstop, who fielded the ball cleanly. The scamper of base runners to third, to second and to first so disconcerted the fielder that he held the ball too long trying to decide to which base he should throw. The result was that all runners were safe and the next batter drove in a couple runs. Before the side finally was retired four runs were crossed the plate. The fielder apparently was undecided whether there was one or two out and whether he should try for a double play. He lost them all.

• • •

In that same game, with a runner on third base and two men out, the third baseman fielded a ground ball, saw the base runner at third break for the plate and shot the ball to the catcher. The runner finally was run down for the third out after quite a scramble, but the proper play obviously was at first base. It would have been an easy out at the initial sack, because there was a force play at that base. There was no force play at home plate and the play on the base runner at third may have turned sour if he had beat the run-down and gotten back to third, and particularly if he had scored on the play. In the two situations indicated above, the infielders had not analyzed the plays in advance.

PRIM MUZZLES BRAVES, 2 TO 0

Only 4 Boston Runners Stranded As Bruins Bolster Lead

Chicago, July 13. (AP) — The league-leading Chicago Cubs, behind the four-hit pitching of Lefty Ray Prim, grabbed their 12th victory in 13 starts today with a 2-0 triumph over the Boston Braves before a paid crowd of 7,357.

The Braves, who yesterday snapped a Cub winning streak at 11, had only four runners stranded, three of them in the sixth when they made their only threat.

A scratch single by Len Merullo, and an error by third sacker Charley Workman and Prim's single produced the first Cub tally. Prim's second single, a fielder's choice and Don Johnson's triple to right scored the second Chicago tally in the seventh.

The Braves' sixth inning bid started when Vince Shupe opened the frame with a single. Logan sacrificed and then Prim issued his first walk to Eddie Joost. Dick Culler grounded out to Prim, but Tommy Holmes walked, filling the bases. Charley Workman grounded out to second, however, to end the inning.

Score by innings:

Boston	000 000 000—0 4 2
Chicago	000 010 10x—2 7 0

Hutchings, Logan and Masi; Prim and Williams.

NOSED IN TENTH

Pittsburgh, July 13 (AP)—Staging a two-run rally in the tenth inning, the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed out the Philadelphia Phillies 3 to 2 today before 3,660 fans.

Jim Russell doubled to bring in Al Gionfriddo with the tying run. Johnny Barrett singled, driving in Russell with the winning tally.

The Phils tied up the game in the eighth, when Vance Danges singled to bring in Glen Crawford, and then took the lead in their half of the tenth when Jimmy Wasdell's timely single brought in another marker.

The Phils defeated the Pirates 11 to 9 in a pre-game three-inning close-out of an unfinished game on June 3.

First Game:

Philadelphia	204 023 000—11 12 1
Pittsburgh	000 351 000— 9 13 1

Barrett, Karl and Peacock, Mancuso; Gables, Rescigno, Currurullo, Cuccurullo, Roe, Gerhauser and Salkeld.

Second Game:

Philadelphia	000 000 010 1—2 10 0
Pittsburgh	100 000 000 2—3 10 1

Judd, Barrett, Schanz and Mancuso, Spindel; Butcher and Lopez.

GIANTS DROP TWO

St. Louis, July 13 (AP) — The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, with Charles (Red) Barrett pitching his eleventh victory, downed the New York Giants, 4 to 1, in the second game of a twilight-night double-header tonight at Sportsman's Park. The Cards won the opener, 14 to 3, with Bill Voiselle the loser.

Only score by the Giants in the second game was a homer by Dan Gardella, his eighth of the year, in the fifth inning. Harry Feldman failed to finish on the mound.

First Game:

New York	000 000 030— 3 8 0
St. Louis	114 314 00x—14 16 0

Voiselle, Harrell (3), Phillips (4) and Kluttz; Byerly and O'Dea, Rice (6).

Second Game:

New York	000 010 000—1 7 2
St. Louis	101 002 00x—4 7 0

Feldman, Emmerich and Lombardi; Barrett and O'Dea.

SINGLE BEATS BROOKLYN

Cincinnati, July 13 (AP)—Frank McCormick's single with one out in the ninth inning scored Dain Clay and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 6-5 victory over Brooklyn today. Elmer Riddle, relieving Ed Heusser in the eighth, was credited with his first victory of the season.

Score by innings:

Brooklyn	110 003 000—5 12 1
Cincinnati	001 010 301—6 12 2

Buker, King and Sandlock; Heusser, Riddle and Under.

Sgt. Charles Hare Takes Tennis Title

Bournemouth, England, July 13 (AP) — Charles E. Hare, once a member of the British Davis Cup team but now a sergeant in Uncle Sam's army, today won the crown as the tennis champion of the U. S. forces stationed in the United Kingdom.

Hare, whose home is in Chicago, defeated Pvt. Tom Falkenburg of Hollywood, 6-4, 6-3 and then combined with Pvt. Herbert Auerbach of New York City, to defeat Falkenburg and Pvt. Jack Colt, also of New York, 6-4, 6-3, for the doubles crown.

The champions will represent the United Kingdom base in the European theater title play later this summer.

TRADING TRENDS

New York, July 13 (AP)—

Stocks: Easy; light selling stalls leaders.

Bonds: Irregular; rails hold to narrow trend.

Cotton: Steady; commission house buying.

Chicago:

Wheat: 1-8 to ½ higher; talk of government support program.

Corn: Firm at ceilings.

Rye: ¼ lower to 1 cent higher; up with wheat.

Hogs: Active and fully steady. Top $14.75.

Cattle: Mostly steady. Top $17.50, choice kinds missing.

LIGHT SELLING TRIMS LEADERS

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, July 13 (AP)—Leading rails, industrials and utilities backed down under light selling in today's stock market and only scattered pivotals were able to override offerings.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point at 66.7. Of 864 issues appearing, 452 were lower, 224 higher and 188 unchanged.

Wilson & Co. held a gain of 7-8 at 15 7-8, a 1945 peak, while Armour was up 3-8 at 10¼, apparently in response to forecasts of a better outlook for the meat packers. Small plus signs were retained by General Motors, Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

Prominent casualties included Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, International Harvester, American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., Boeing, Grumman, Pan American Airways and Standard Oil (N. J.).

BONDS CLOSE LOWER

New York, July 13 (AP)—The bond market closed lower after following an irregular pattern in today's trading.

A decline of .1 of a point on average for railroad issues in the Associated Press compilation was reflected in most Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, New Haven and St. Louis-San Francisco liens. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, Missouri Pacific convertible 5½s and Morris & Essex 5s also followed the downward trend.

In industrials, unchanged on average, Standard Oil (N. J.) 2 3-4s, Celanese 3½s and National Dairy 3¼s advanced fractionally. Bethlehem Steel 3s, and Phillips Petroleum 2 3-4s were slightly lower.

American Telephone & Telegraph 3s, Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s and Consumers Power 3¼s were among utility bonds selling lower while Consolidated Edison 3½s and International Telephone & Telegraph recorded slight advances.

Sales for the day totaled $6,650,000 compared with $6,510,000 Thursday.

Foreign government obligations were down .1 of a point on average. Canadian 3s, Danish 5½s, Greek 6s and Sao Paulo State 8s declined and Copenhagen 5s, Brazilian 3 3-4s and Argentine 4s edged upward. U. S. governments were steady.

CHICAGO PRICES

CHICAGO BUTTER

Chicago, July 13 (AP)—Butter, firm; receipts 1,044,274; market unchanged.

CHICAGO EGGS

Chicago, July 13 (AP)—Eggs, receipts 12,632; firm; market unchanged.

CHICAGO POTATOES

Chicago, July 13 (AP)—(WFA)—Potatoes, arrivals 47, on track 59, total U. S. shipments 896.

New stock: Offerings very light, demand good, market firm at ceiling for best stock, only occasional car offered local track market; California 100-lb. sacks of long whites, U. S. No. 1, 4.15 to 4.39; commercial, 3.89 to 4.29.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 13 (AP)—Grain futures climbed today on buying stimulated by rumors that the government soon would inaugurate a support program for the current wheat crop, continued feeder demand, and continued rains in parts of the wheat harvest area.

Wheat advanced as much as 1¼ cents a bushel and rye 1 3-4 cents before profit-taking cut into the gains.

Corn is not coming to market and oats have arrived in small quantities. Feed demand for wheat is increasing.

Wheat closed 1-8 to ½ higher than the previous finish, July $1.67 3-8 to $1.67½; corn was unchanged at $1.18½ ceiling; oats were up 3-8 to 7-8, July 68¼ to 68 3-8; rye was ¼ down to 1 cent up, July $1.53 3-4, and barley was ¼ lower to 3-8 higher, July $1.18.

Showers fell overnight in some parts of the southwestern wheat harvest area, and scattered rain was forecast for some areas.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, July 13 (AP)—(WFA)—Salable hogs 4,000, total 7,500; active and fully steady; good and choice barrows and gilts, 140 lbs. up, at 14.75 ceiling; good and choice sows at 14.00; complete clearance. Shippers took 1,000.

Salable cattle 1,000, total 1,500; salable calves 500, total 500; most killing classes steady, cows slow, weak, bulls firm; draggy undertone on strictly grass steers and grass heifers, peddled at 15.00 down and 13.50 down respectively; several loads fed steers 16.50 to 17.40, latter price day's top; grassy heifers 11.00 to 13.00 mostly; strictly grain fed offerings absent; cutter cows 9.00 down; heavy sausage bulls 13.50 and heacy fat bulls to 15.50; vealers 16.00 down; general clearance broad.

Salable sheep 500, total 2,000; market steady except undertone and few scattered sales cull and common spring lambs weak to unevenly lower; good and choice native springers 16.25 to 16.35; bucks discounted 1.00; package medium to good 61-lb. weights 15.00, bucks included; few common under 70-lb. lambs 12.00 to 13.00; common to choice shorn native ewes 6.50 to 8.25, popular price 8.00 on mixed medium choice kinds.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New York, July 13 (AP)—The market for sterling in inter-bank dealings today showed considerable strength with activity attributed to demand for commercial purposes.

The rate at which banks bought sterling exchange went to 4.03 3-8 in the forenoon but eased later to 4.03 1-8 bid and 4.03 3-8 asked.

Closing foreign exchange rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents):

Canadian dollar in New York open market 9 1-8 per cent discount, or 90.87½ U. S. cents, unchanged.

Europe: Great Britain 4.02@, up .00⅛.

Latin America: Argentina free 24.97, up .02 of a cent; Brazil free 5.25n; Mexico 20.65n.

n—Nominal.

Big Battleships Bombard Steel City On Honshu

on indicated opposition was negligible.

The great battleships all are armed with nine 16-inch guns each, hurling projectiles weighing better than a ton apiece. Each also has secondary 5-inch batteries useful for close inshore bombardment, with shells weighing more than 50 pounds.

The heavy cruisers Chicago and Quincy are sisters of the Baltimore class, mounting nine 8-inch guns each in triple turrets and also have secondary 5-inch batteries.

Strength Expanded

The 8-inch guns can fire their 250 - pound projectiles accurately about 17 miles.

The bold action demonstrates how much air strength the Japanese expended in their futile defense of Okinawa. Their refusal to come to fight off the Third Fleet's planes over Tokyo Tuesday undoubtedly prompted Adm. Halsey to risk the present history-making bombardment.

Third fleet power now is hitting the Japanese homeland along an arc of more than 400 miles, deep into the Hokkaido airfields of the north.

Disclosure of the present whereabouts of the fleet permitted Halsey to break radio silence and give a full report of the success scored in the smash at Tokyo only five days before.

BY LEIF ERICKSON

Guam, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—A howling typhoon, ripping through the western Pacific at 138 miles an hour, crippled more than 21 ships of Adm. William F. Halsey's massive Third Fleet as it skirted southern Japan June 5.

Most of the stricken vessels were repaired quickly and participated in last Tuesday's carrier aircraft sweep against Tokyo although the storm damage was greater than the enemy had been able to inflict in any single action.

Cruiser Torn Apart

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz disclosed this dramatic naval episope last night, reporting that the damaged ships included four of the navy's new carriers and three of the latest battleships.

The terrific force of the wind tore the bow completely off the cruiser Pittsburgh but the vessel was brought to port safely without the loss of a man.

When Halsey's Third Fleet sent its air arm over Japan July 10 the striking force included the Battleships Massachusetts and Indiana and carrier San Jacinto, all of which had been put out of action temporarily by the storm. Other heavy units damaged included the battleship Alabama and the carriers Hornet, Bennington and Belleau Wood.

Not a single ship was lost in the cyclonic disturbance, Nimitz said. He gave no report on loss of life nor injury to personnel from the storm.

Waves 100 Feet High

It was the second time that Halsey's ships had battled typhoons in recent months. The previous storm capsized three destroyers, the Monaghan, Hull and Spence, in the Philippines area last December, with heavy loss of life.

Nimitz reported that 20 of the ships damaged in the June storm were back in service and that the Pittsburgh was being refitted. Presumably other ships also were still undergoing repairs.

The announcement, disclosed however, that most of the job of putting the vessels back in service had been completed.

Other repaired ships included the escort carrier Bougainville and the destroyers John Rodgers and Blue; and three other carriers and seven destroyers to which damage was minor.

The terrible beating the Pittsburgh underwent was described in a delayed dispatch from AP Correspondent Robbin Coons.

Thunderous seas, reaching a height of 100 feet, ripped off 104 feet of the cruiser's bow and tossed it aside as if it were a match box.

Capt. John E. Gingrich of Dodge City, Kansas, commanding officer, instantly ordered the engines into reverse to pull the ship away from the tossing bow.

Crewmen Escape

"We evidently were passing close to the worst of the storm," Captain Gingrich reported. "Suddenly about 6:30 a. m. we saw two tremendous seas. One threw us 10 to 15 degrees. At the next one the deck plates buckled and the bow just ripped and floated off."

Sixty of the crew had living quarters in the bow section but all were in other parts of the vessel at the time. The cruiser came through the ordeal without loss or injury of any of her 1,000 or more men. Gingrich said the ship, after completing the reversing move, came into the dead calm center of the typhoon. Then the storm, swinging onward, caught her once more with its full fury.

"All the time," said the captain, "we thought of the possibility that the stern also might be carried away, which would mean that the propeller shafts would be lost and the engine rooms flooded, with power and steering ability lost."

Some below-decks sections were flooded. Storm-tossed furniture and stores increased the danger to the men as they worked to strengthen bulkheads and close leaks.

The Pittsburgh managed to make her way, at nine knots, back to Guam under her own power.

Two light undergarments will keep you warmer than one heavy one, since the air between acts as insulation.

Sugar Runs Short; Some Lose Out On Canning Supplies

Washington, July 13 (AP)—Civilian supplies of sugar for the last three months of this year may drop 25 per cent under the low allotment for the current July-September quarter.

This prospect was disclosed by food officials today as reports came to the agriculture department and the Office of Price Administration that retail stores in some parts of the country have run out of sugar and are unable to honor ration coupons.

Officials estimate that the world supply is around 8,000,000 tons short of the world demand, so that the United States is not alone on short rations.

The distribution problem is complicated by a number of factors, including transportation difficulties and very short reserve stocks.

This shortage in reserves and liberality of some local ration boards earlier in the year in issuing canning sugar also make it impossible, officials said, for many civilians to obtain sugar for canning at the present time.

Blame For Sinking Relief Ship Taken By United States

Washington, July 13 (AP)—The United States publicly acknowledged tonight responsibility for the submarine sinking of the Japanese relief ship Awa Maru which was traveling under an Allied safe conduct guarantee.

The vessel was sent to the bottom by an American submarine which torpedoed it in a fog off Formosa about midnight April 1, with a loss of more than 1,000 lives. The government has informed the Japanese government that "disciplinary action is being taken" with respect to the sub commander. His name was not given nor was the nature of the discipline disclosed.

Actress Nazimova Dies In Hospital

Los Angeles, July 13 (AP)—Alla Nazimova, 66, tempestuous siren of the silent screen, died today in Good Samaritan hospital after a brief illness that interrupted her plans to return to the stage in a production of her own.

Active until the last, she had assumed character roles in numerous recent pictures, including "The Bridge Of San Luis Rey," "In Our Time," and "Since You Went Away."

She returned to Hollywood in 1938 at the age of 59 after an absence of 13 years, during which she played in her own stage productions of Isben Dramas.

Suit For $200,000 Is Lost By McCrea

Detroit, July 13 (AP)—A federal court suit in which Duncan C. McCrea sought $200,000 damages from the Chicago Riverdale Lumber Co., of Illinois, was dismissed today without prejudice.

McCrea, former Wayne county prosecutor now serving a prison term for conspiracy to protect vice, was one of seven co-partners in the Bodi Lake Lumber Co. of Newberry, Mich. He charged a breach of contract by the Chicago firm.

A defense motion for dismissal contended McCrea's suit had not shown diversity of citizenship.

It is estimated that paper does 700,000 war jobs.

FISH PLANTING IDEAS CHANGE

New Theories Developed On Propagation In Michigan

Lansing—Men who are responsible for the maintenance of good fishing in Michigan waters now believe that transfer to lakes and streams of hatchery-reared fish and streams can spoil fishing also.

"Stocking is unnecessary, uneconomical, or even harmful if the species suited to the environment are already present," declares F. A. Westerman, chief of the conservation department's fish division.

"In the last decade the findings of the fisheries biologists, who have been given increasing support in their work in Michigan, have caused us to question the value of much of our past program," Westerman declares.

"Not that the money and energy spent by conscientious fish culturists and conservation officers have been wasted. Fish culture has made real and lasting contributions to fishing in many places by introducing and establishing desirable game species.

"According to the early settlers and explorers, brook trout were not found in many lower peninsula streams; they did not appear there until after they were planted. The rainbow trout and the brown trout were fortunate introductions also in most of the waters where they were stocked.

"The widespread planting of bluegills, bass, perch, and pike-perch (walleyes) has also resulted in establishing these species in many lakes to which they were not originally native.

"But the job of introducing suitable species has now been largely done."

Westerman adds that some plantings have also done harm to fishing. "The undesirable carp was distributed over the state for several years before it was realized that this Asiatic minnow was a menace to many game-fish waters," he points out. "The addition of new species in order to 'add variety' to the fishing is believed to have upset the natural balance in many waters resulting in generally poor fishing for both the native and the introduced forms."

Changes in fish management practices will be increasingly apparent in Michigan according to Westerman.

Over 4,000 Remain Idle In Detroit's Wave Of Walkouts

Detroit, July 13 (AP)—More than 4,000 workers remained idle tonight as the result of strikes in this area.

Meanwhile, milk deliveries were resumed by the Detroit Creamery Co. and the Ebling Creamery Co. Deliveries were halted for four days by a strike of 1,000 employes.

Strikes continued at Graham Paige Motor Co. with 2,900 idle, at American Metal Products Co. with 500 idle and at twelve lumber yards with 700 idle.

Bank At Frankfurt Jammed With Loot Taken By Germans

Frankfurt on Main, Germany, July 13 (AP)—The greatest collection of looted wealth ever assembled under one roof was being inventoried and identified today by currency experts from the United States treasury and the Bank of England.

The loot occupied almost every available cubic foot of storage space in the Reichsmark bank of Frankfurt. In some rooms paper currency was stacked in canvas bags from floor to ceiling. Bullion was stacked like cordwood. One large room held securities from almost every country in the world.

In addition to gold and silver there were hogsheads of pearls, rubies and sapphires and in other wooden cases were gold and silver fillings from the teeth of tens of thousands of murdered Jews.

In one cache was a deposit of radium. In another thousands of wedding rings stripped from the fingers of women victims of the Nazis in Germany, Greece, Poland and other occupied countries were strung on ropes like country sausages. A third held almost the entire silver reserve of the Hungarian government. A fourth included the special gold reserve and loot of Ribbentrop's foreign office.

Hay Fever Victims Get Speedy Reports On Pollen Counts

Lansing, July 13 (AP)—The State Health Department today promised speedier reports to hay fever victims on the ragweed pollen counts in various sections of the state.

Dr. William Dekleine, state health commissioner, said that for this year's statewide survey, which starts Monday, pollen count centers have been set up in Grand Rapids, Houghton, Lansing, Mackinaw City, Powers, Saginaw and Traverse City, to compile reports from 47 collection stations. Previously all the slides on which the pollen is collected have been mailed to Lansing, resulting in a delay.

Dr. Kekleine said that on the basis of four previous surveys, ragweed pollen is the chief offender as far as summer hay fever is concerned, and that it seldom begins to shed pollen before July 15 in Michigan. The peak is reached the last week of August or the first week of September.

The amount of pollen in the air is gauged by a count of pollen collected on two-inch glass slides each 24-hour period.

Kiwanis Will See Demonstration Of Glass Blowing Art

Dr. Ernest R. Kline, head of the chemistry department of Connecticut State College, Storrs, Conn., will give a series of demonstrations of glass blowing at the meeting of the Escanaba Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel Monday noon.

Special glass blowing equipment has been loaned by the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton for the program.

Dr. Kline, a brother-in-law of Frank J. Lindenthal, is spending the summer vacation with his family at Indian Lake, near Manistique. He holds degrees from Kalamazoo College, the University of Michigan and Brown University.

Falconry was carried into England by the Teutonic conquerors.

NAVAL PLANES RAID HONSHU AND HOKKAIDO

1,000-plane carrier strike at Tokyo, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique today. Even those reports still were incomplete.

The new figure raised the previously announced toll from 154, including two shot out of the air.

The latter report, made possible by resumed radio contact with the Third Fleet presently attacking northern Honshu and Hokkaido, listed 109 destroyed and 231 damaged on the ground and two snoopers shot down near the fleet.

The communique said no enemy air interception was offered from Tokyo's network of more than 70 airfields.

The operation, which found the Nipponese air force assigned to defend the homeland aground or in hiding, cost five fighters and five torpedo planes.

Personnel casualties were seven pilots and six air crewmen.

A small freighter and two aircraft were sunk and a barge damaged.

Airfield hangars were blasted at Kanemaru, Nasuno and Tsukuba. Hangars and shops were hit at bases which included Hyakurigahara, Utsonomiya, Maebashi, Astugi, Yokosuka, Yachimata, Katori, Shiroi, Tokorozawa, Kasumigaura and Imba.

Several factory buildings were damaged at Koizumi. A freight train was hit at Uchihara and a powerhouse at Yatabe.

Horse Race Tip Sheets Banned

Detroit, July 13 (AP)—The prosecutor's office today banned 24 publications giving horse race information from the newsstands.

John D. O'Connell, assistant prosecutor, said that anyone offering them for sale henceforth will be liable to prosecution. He disclosed that they were "tipsheets" of a type prohibited by laws governing possession of gambling paraphernalia.
